SCOTTISH AIR-MAIL LETTER

A Point In Braid Scots: Distrust Of Liberty: Slump In Raeburn: The Highland Society: Scotland At
The B. I. F.: Sir Daniel
Stevenson

(Special Air-Mail Service)

Edinburgh, May 26.
The Prince of Wales stressed the need for conserving the 2,000,000 square miles of forest in the Empire when he spoke yesterday at the annual meeting of the Empire Forestry Association, of which he is president.

"I regret that retrenchments have been taking place in some of the forest services of the Empire," said the Prince. "Of course, when bad times come along Governments have great difficulties in making ends meet. At such moments forestry, as a long-term investment, is a tempting victim, since the results of retrenchment are not here immediately visible."

"It is a great pity, though, that this should be so. For there is success, demands to the same extent a definite policy, steadily pursued from year to year—indeed, from generation to generation."

A SCOTTISH MOTTO

The motto of the Royal Scottish Forestry Society—"Ye should aye be sticking in a tree, it will be growing while you're sleeping"—is good as far as it goes."

The Prince brought a smile to his audience by speaking the Scottish motto in braid Scots. "But forestry has advanced far beyond that conception," he continued. "It is recognised that forests must be carefully protected from fire, insect, and other damage, that the amount of timber cut annually should be limited to the annual growth, and that the marketing of timber and other forest products should be well organised."

"These requirements, naturally, demand the continuous attention of a competent staff of experts."

"I would, therefore, plead with all Government of the Empire which have forest assets in their care to hesitate long before reducing their establishments in periods of depression."

ONLY 1500 OF A STAFF

"It may be thought by some that I stress too much this matter of staff, but the total area of forest in the Empire is approximately 2,300,000 square miles. That, surely, is an asset of immense value."

"These forests are administered by some 1500 forest officers only. I think you will agree that reductions in so slender an establishment certainly call for some comment."

There was a marked improvement, he was glad to see, in the trade in Empire timbers. Great Britain was the largest buyer, but too large a share of her requirements still came from foreign sources.

The Prince wished success to the exhibits of Empire and home-grown timbers at the coming agricultural shows at Glasgow and Ipswich.

TRIBUTE TO LATE LORD LOVAT

"There is no doubt about the beauty and high quality of Empire timbers," he went on. "I am glad that public bodies and large commercial companies are more and more insisting on the use of Empire timbers in their new buildings."

The Prince said it was sad that since he last presided at a meeting of the Association eight years ago Lord Lovat, a very old friend of his and the real founder of the Association, had died.

"I would like to pay a tribute to him because I know what a great deal of work he did, and what a great impetus he gave to this movement."

The Prince appealed to all interested in the growing or use of timber to join the Association.

Sir Bhupendra Nath Mitra, High Commissioner for India, said the Government of India had always recognised the great importance of her forests to her people. India was the first country in the Empire to develop scientific forestry.

Mr. Te Water, High Commissioner for South Africa, said that South Africa was the agreed venue for the next meeting of the Empire Forestry Conference.

MODERN "CRAVING FOR SERVITUDE"

An escort of Scotland's only cavalry regiment, the Royal Scots Greys, in full ceremonial dress, rode from the Palace of Holyrood House through the streets of Edinburgh to-day with Mr. John Buchan, M.P., the Lord High Commissioner, for the opening of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland. It is one of the rare occasions on which the citizens of the Scottish capital see the famous Greys in the panoply that was familiar in the more picturesque days before the war.

Mr. Buchan and Mrs. Buchan are in residence at the Palace for the next ten days while the Assembly is in progress. To-day was devoted chiefly to ceremonial. Mr. Buchan, as the King's representative, began it with the holding of a levee at the Palace, which was attended by civil, military, and ecclesiastical dignitaries.

In the forecourt was mounted a guard of honour of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, whom the Lord High Commissioner subsequently inspected with a large crowd looked on in the bright sunshine. Later the procession set out to the ancient cathedral of St. Giles in the Royal Mile, and as the cavalcade progressed along Princes Street a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

THE KING'S MESSAGE

The Assembly Hall was crowded when the Lord High Commissioner arrived about an hour later and took his seat in the throne gallery. With him were his wife and his mother and sister, as well as the members of his suite. After impressive preliminaries the King's approval of Mr. Buchan's appointment as Lord High Commissioner was read, as was also a message from his Majesty.

This message began with a renewed assurance of the King's deep interest in all that concerned "our ancient and historic Church in Scotland and our firm determination to uphold... just rights and privileges," and it proceeded: "It is our sincere desire that with each year the Church should participate more fully in the national life, and we pray that all success may attend her efforts in the noble task which has been undertaken for the new communities which are growing up in our land."

In the course of his address the Lord High Commissioner said: "The King has commanded me to assure you of his great sense of your steady and firm zeal in his service and of his determination to maintain at all times Presbyterian church government in Scotland."

REVOLT AGAINST FREEDOM

"Throughout the world to-day," he continued, "there is a danger of revolt against freedom, not for the love of manly discipline but out of sheer failure of nerve. In secular politics we see a widespread distrust of liberty. Among great masses of men there is a loss of self-confidence; the citizen has forgotten his old pride of standing squarely on his feet."

"There is an impulse to huddle together and to seek salvation in herds, a fear of being alone, a craving to surrender the will to any authority which will save trouble. The critical and sceptical spirit which has long been abroad has disintegrated many of the old securities and driven men to flee for shelter to any new thing which offers cohesion and stability. A like impulse may be detected, I think, in certain religious movements of to-day."

"That is an unclean and lying spirit, both in secular and in sacred things, for it must lead to the decay of mind and will and soul. There can be no hope in that which involves the abnegation of manhood and the surrender of what St. Paul calls: 'The glorious liberty of the sons of God.' To oppose to-day a weak craving for servitude is as sacred a duty of this church of free men and free women as any that it has faced in its stormy history."

SCOTTISH CHIEF'S PORTRAIT SOLD IN UNITED STATES

Raeburn's portrait of John Lamont, Chief of the Scottish Clan of Lamont, has fetched $25,000 ($25,800), at an auction at the Anderson Galleries, New York.

That was $3000 less than was paid for the picture in April, 1928—its last auction appearance. The painting went to an anonymous collector acting through an agent. "Another heavy reduction in value since pre-depression days was illustrated in the case of Daubigny's painting, 'Les Bords de l'Oise a Comans,' which brought only $1600, compared with $4800 six years ago."

A NEW PRESIDENT

Prince Arthur of Connaught is to preside at the 151st anniversary of the Highland Society of London on June 14. The Duke of Connaught accepted the office of chairman of the Society for the year a few months ago, and His Royal Highness, by virtue of the power vested in the position by an Act of Parliament in 1816, has nominated his son and heir to take his place in the chair at the annual festival of the Society. The Prince of Wales presided at the dinner last year in his capacity as permanent president of the Society. For many years past every new membership certificate has been signed personally by His Royal Highness.

SCOTLAND AND THE INDUSTRIES FAIR

Preparations are being made already for the British Industries Fair in London next February, and in Birmingham next May, and for the latter a board of management has just been appointed without a single Scottish representative. I am informed officially that there is nothing significant in the omission of Scottish representatives from the board. Neither must it be taken as suggesting that a Scottish section will be established next year. Albeit the Scottish influence in the Birmingham Fair has been very great, for I am told that it is at the behest of Scottish exhibitors, particularly Clyde-side engineering firms, that the Midlands exhibition has been fixed to take place three months later next year than in this and previous years. They have asked that the Birmingham Fair should be held in May instead of February to allow engineering models to be shown in the open, and also as more convenient for Dominion and foreign visitors interested in heavy machinery.

INSTALLATION OF UNIVERSITY CHANCELLOR

It is understood that the installation of Sir Daniel Stevenson, Bt., as Chancellor of the University of Glasgow, in succession to the late Sir Donald MacAlister of Tarnbarry, Bt., will take place on Wednesday, June 20, which is the date already fixed for the honorary graduation had the graduation for higher degrees in view of the installation of the new Chancellor. LANE CRAWFORD'S ANNUAL MEETING

Sir William Shenton Reviews The Past Year's Business

Sir William Shenton presided on Saturday at the annual Meeting of Messrs. Lane Crawford Limited.

In the course of his speech, Sir William said that the profit on working account for the past year, amounted to $92,579, which was $11,400 less than in 1932. No dividend was recommended.

"In its trading during the year under review," said the Chairman, "your Company has continued to maintain its reputation for supplying highest quality merchandise at reasonable prices."

$20,000 For Staff Passages

Supporting the Chairman were Messrs. T. E. Pearce, E. M. Raymond, A. B. Stewart and J. H. Taggart (Directors) and Mr. A. W. Brown (Secretary). The following shareholders were also present: Messrs. S. M. Churn, F. C. Barry, H. M. de Figueroa, E. J. Abisale, B. S. Rogers, D. K. Kharas, K. C. Mark, Sau Kui and H. R. Forsyth (representing the auditors).

Addressing the meeting, the Chairman said:—Gentlemen, before proceeding to report on the affairs of your Company for the past financial year, I wish to refer, with regret, to Mr. J. P. Warren's recent departure from the Colony on account of ill health. Mr. Warren has been a member of this Company's Board since March 1929, and I feel sure you will join me in the hope that he will make a speedy recovery and return to again assist in directing the affairs of the Company.

The Report and Statement of Accounts for the financial year ended February 28 1934 having been in your hands for the prescribed period, I will, with your permission, follow the usual procedure and take them as read.

I now submit the following observations on the accounts. The profit for the year on Working Account amounts to $92,579.10. Compared with the previous year, this shows a decline of $11,421.22 which is almost entirely attributable to a further shrinkage in turnover. The reiterated explanation of general trade depression and curtailed purchasing power grows monotonous, but it remains none the less applicable.

On the debit side of the Profit and Loss Account you will note that the usual composite charge for Directors' and Auditors' Fees has been subdivided, and Directors' Fees and emoluments now appear as a separate charge in pursuance of requirements of the Companies Ordinance 1932.

Expenditure on Repairs and Renewals amounts to $2,495.77 as against $7,683.18 in the previous year.

Ample provision has been made for depreciation, and particulars of how the charge of $51,485.47 has been applied, are fully detailed in the Balance Sheet to which I now direct my observations.

Fixed Assets

The Company's fixed Assets stand at a figure of $2,516,346.07. Particulars of how this total is computed are clearly stated in the Balance Sheet, and shareholders can study, without further guidance from me, the direction in which capital expenditure has been incurred during the year. Since, however, the matter of capital expenditure was the subject of remark by a shareholder at our last yearly meeting, I wish to point out that, as compared with a figure of $55,409.10 for the previous year, additions to fixed assets during the year amounted to the greatly reduced figure of $22,785.04.

This represents a considerable saving, and has enabled us to divert funds for the purpose of reducing the loan of $2,100,000, secured by a Mortgage on Exchange Building. If you refer for a moment to the Liabilities, you will note that this loan has, during the year under review, been reduced by no less than one lakh, and whilst this may be regarded as eminently satisfactory, I would point out that until such time as our indebtedness under this heading is reduced to a figure more commensurate with the basic principal as applicable to advances made against property, it is essential that your Company should concentrate on relieving itself of this obligation to its Bankers.

To revert to the Assets: Stock at the figure of $720,882.94 is considerably less than at the close of the previous year, and I am pleased to state that, by dint of careful buying and energetic selling, there is very little redundant stock on our hands. The figure for Sundry Debtors—$189,948.38—is slightly higher than for the previous year.

Trustees Provident Fund
The Trustees Provident Fund Current Account shows a balance of $95,981.78, which represents exactly the amount appearing on the Liabilities side of the Balance Sheet as owing to the Trustees. I wish to explain that hitherto, part of the monies belonging to this Fund has been retained by the Company on security of a Mortgage granted to the Trustees on our Burrows Street property. The position then was that the Trustees held a certain proportion of the Provident Fund in the form of cash on current account, and the balance in the form of a loan to the Company on the security of a Mortgage. Your Directors decided that, in the interests of all parties concerned, it would be more satisfactory if the Provident Fund were entirely dissociated from the Company's business. This has accordingly been carried out, and in future items relating to the Provident Fund will not appear in the Co's Balance Sheet. They are retained in the Balance Sheet under review since, at the close of the Company's financial year, the property mortgaged to the Trustees had not been reassigned to the Company. Before leaving this subject, I would point out the payment by the Company to the Trustees of $26,441.20 accounts for the Company's overdraft appearing at the comparatively higher figure of $74,342.89.

Turning to the Liabilities, I find that I have already dealt with the main features in cross reference. I wish to remark on the item Sundry Creditors, which, at the figure of $172,141.49, shows a welcome contraction of $42,614.05 as compared with the previous year.

JOCKEY IN CAR ACCIDENT

S. Wragg Unable to Ride

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 26. Sam Wragg, the well-known jockey, was injured in a motor accident at Huddersfield last night. He was returning from Haydock Park races—where he had been riding—in a car driven by John Marr, of Luxor-road, Leeds, with John Harrington, licensee of the Midland Hotel, Wakefield. In Lindley Moor-road, Huddersfield, the car skidded and collided with a wall. It was practically wrecked, and the three men were injured in the head, but not seriously. They were taken to Huddersfield Infirmary and detained.

Wragg said that he would not be able to fulfil his riding engagements at Haydock Park to-day. The accident, he added, was caused through the car skidding on the slippery road.

REICHSBANK RETURN

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, June 9. The Reichsbank return for the period ending June 7, which was published on Saturday, shows that the note-cover declined to 3.4 per cent, as against 3.7 on May 31 and 4.8 on May 23. The goldstock was reduced by 19.0 million marks to 111.1 millions, while foreign currencies increased 3.7 millions to 9.4 millions, making a net decrease in cover of 15.3 millions to 120.5 million marks.

CABLE NEWS IN BRIEF

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Moscow, June 8. As the result of investigation made among Moscow's lending libraries, it turns out that the most read books are those by Tolstoy and Gorki, followed next by Paschkin, Scholochow, Turgenew, Novikovsky, Gogol, Tschekow, Jack London, Victor Hugo, and Dreiser. Besides these, the following are also much in demand, Jules Verne, Dumas Byron, Heine, Balsac, and Upton Sinclair.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Paris, June 8. The famous French daily, "Figaro," strongly nationalist in politics, and which recently passed out of the ownership of the perfume king, Coty, has been reorganised by a number of well-known journalists.

The former editor of the "Temps," Pierre Brisson, heads the editorial staff which includes men like Andre Maurois, Paul Maraud, Duc Dormesson, and the economic specialist, Lucien Romier. Romier will serve also as a director, and Rene Larra as chief leader writer.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Berlin, June 8. Prompted by numerous enquiries from investors as to whether the issue of a 4 per cent. new Reich loan can be regarded as the first step of general conversion action, State Secretary Reinhardt of the Ministry of Finance, replied in the "Deutscher Steuer Zeitung," that the action for lowering the general level of interest is imperative in the interest of the Government's campaign against unemployment; since this process does not burden the Budget. All Reich Loans will be converted on the same basis as soon as the original terms of issue allow. Reinhardt declared that the present resources held by the Reich would be sufficient for financing the anti-unemployment campaign till 1936. Meanwhile, the conversion policy would be applied to all loans of the Reich federal states and municipalities, the basis of interest for the future to be four per cent. throughout.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Kovno, June 8. Messages from Kovno state that the military insurrection had completely failed, that altogether twenty officers had been arrested and that Voldemaras who, till Friday, was in the rooms of the State Safety Police, had been cross-examined and then sent to one of the prisons.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Paris, June 8. Boulevardiers who have been looking forward with delight to the prospect of an amusing weekend during the officially proclaimed first great practice session of air raid alarm over all Paris on Saturday, are greatly disappointed by the announcement that the trials have been postponed indefinitely. The reason given for the postponement was that the number and size of sirens in Paris are inadequate.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Vienna, June 8. The prohibition throughout Austria for the distribution and sale of all daily papers, periodicals, magazines and pamphlets from the Reich has been prolonged for another three months, according to a decree issued by Chancellor Dollfuss on Friday. This action means that Austrian readers are virtually segregated from the intellectual life of the Reich until September 16.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Brussels, June 8. Debroqueville who resigned the Premiership this week was commissioned on Friday by King Leopold to form a new Cabinet.—Transocean Kuo Min.

The causes for the decline were partly due to the payment of 425 million marks of interest to the Dawes loan, and partly to the decline of receipts in foreign currencies owing to the negative trade balance three months ago. On the other hand the restriction on the import of raw materials is now having its effect. The note issue declined by 127.5 millions to 3,507.9 million marks. The amount of credit issued as measured by bills, cheques, advances and investments declined by 111.1 millions to 5,523.9 million Reichsmarks.—Transocean Kuo Min.

JACK PETTIFER

Draw With Jack London

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 26. Jack Pettifer was a great disappointment to his numerous Brighton admirers at the Brighton Stadium yesterday when he boxed a draw over ten rounds with Jack London, the hard-hitting West-Hartlepool boxer.

The referee was Joe Beckett. Doubtless, he took into account the fact that Pettifer generally went through the motions of leading, and thus made the fight. Apart from that, however, Pettifer was a well-beaten man.

After his visit to America it was expected that Pettifer would show improvement. He began the fight with some nice left hooks, and I thought he had at last begun to fulfil his promise. But after that first round he lost all initiative and fell into his old habit of aimless leading and no hitting.

It took London a couple of rounds to size up the position. Much the shorter man, he seemed at first to be overawed by the magnitude (physically) of his task. I learned, too, that he had spent twenty-four hours on his journey from the North. He travelled by road, experienced a breakdown in his lorry, and arrived only an hour or so before the show started.

London has a punch, if little else. He saw Pettifer's wide-open jaw, and found that his old trick of enticing an opponent to advance until the moment when he could swing his right to the chin was made for Pettifer.

In the ninth round it seemed that Pettifer must fall under the hail of blows. He survived, did some little damage in the last round, and got a draw.

For Pettifer this display was a bad blow. He had hopes of meeting Doyle and Petersen again, but his gymnasium training with

WOMAN TO OWN PAPER

Famous Daily Changes Hands

A Change in the ownership of one of the most famous French newspapers, the "Figaro," is to take place in a few days' time. The paper will pass into the hands of the former wife of M. Francois Coty, the multi-millionaire perfume manufacturer.

Until recently M. Coty himself was owner of the paper. Since he and Mme. Coty were divorced a few years ago, the latter, whose maiden name was Le Baron, has married a Roumanian, and she is now Mme. Cotnareanu.

When the divorce was agreed upon, it was found that Mme. Coty was entitled to half of the vast wealth acquired by her husband during the years they had spent together.

Now the business of M. Coty, although still prosperous, has declined in value as a result of the economic crisis.

As the valuation of the property for the purpose of the deed of divorce was made before the fall in prices had occurred to any serious extent, M. Coty, having to meet a heavy payment at a given moment, was unable to retain his controlling interest in the "Figaro." The paper thus passed into other hands last autumn.

It appears, however, that the new owners have become heavily indebted to Mme. Cotnareanu. The rent of the building in the Avenue des Champs Elysees, where the offices are situated, now her property, has not been paid for some time. In these circumstances, Mme. Cotnareanu has been induced to purchase the newspaper.

The plan of the new owner is to bring back the "Figaro" to its moderate Conservative policy, while paying special attention to literary, theatrical and society news.

The "Figaro" was founded in 1825, and after a temporary eclipse was re-established in 1854. Last century many famous writers were connected with it.

Gaston Calmette was its director before the war. He was assassinated in 1914 by Mme. Caillaux, who shot him in his office following a campaign which he had conducted against her husband, Joseph Caillaux.

JAPANESE POCKET SUBMARINE

Carried By Warship

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 26. Despite official reticence, the existence of a "midget" Japanese submarine appears to be fully established, writes a correspondent. I learn that trials lasting three months have just been concluded at Ito, on the Izu peninsula, and the remarkable little craft is reputed to have given every satisfaction.

Displacing only 12 tons, it is 29ft. in length with a beam of 7ft. 6in. Propulsion is effected by fifty accumulators, each of 2 volts 30 amps, the speed under water being 3.3 knots.

The boat can dive to a depth of 194ft. and remain below the surface for three hours at a time. She is armed with a single torpedo tube and a machine-gun, and is manned by a crew of four.

The type is intended for harbour defence and surprise attacks. Owing to its small dimensions, it can be hoisted on board a large warship, and then launched again to attack enemy shipping in waters where the presence of submarines might never be suspected.

In consequence of the success of the first experimental boat, further midget submarines will probably be built for the Japanese Navy.

Tommy Loughran seems to have done him little good.

MCCORKINDALE OUTBOXED
Don McCorkindale, the South African, who is one of the challengers for the British and British Empire heavy-weight titles, was outboxed by Otto Von Porat, the tall Norwegian, in an open-air show at Ninian Park, Cardiff, yesterday. Von Porat won on points, but after the first round he was forced to attack with his left hand only, having injured the thumb of his right hand.

BRITISH LEGION UNITY

Dissension Charge Refuted

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 20. Reported dissensions in the ranks of the British Legion led to the cancellation by Prince George of his acceptance of an invitation to attend the annual conference of the Legion which opened here this morning. The news caused great disappointment to the conference and to the town, which had been freely decorated for the occasion.

Prince George's decision was communicated in the following letter from his Comptroller, which was read by the president, Major-General Sir Frederick Maurice:—

"Although Prince George is convinced of the loyalty of the vast majority of the members and branches and of the staff to the governing body of the British Legion elected by the annual conference to conduct and direct its affairs during the year, and had been looking forward to meeting a united band of old comrades at the annual conference and memorial parade and service of the British Legion at Weston-super-Mare on Whit Sunday, May 20, his Royal Highness has decided with much regret that, in view of the reports to which certain unfortunate prominence has recently been given of apparent attempts to cause dissension in the Legion, he does not see his way to accept the Legion's invitation to be present on this occasion."

After reading the letter, Sir Frederick Maurice said that they deeply regretted the cause of the Prince's absence, because they had hoped to greet him personally and add their tribute to the many he had received on the success of his South African tour, by which he had enrolled himself in the noble band of Royal Ambassadors.

Reparation
The president suggested that the only reparation the conference could make to Prince George was to send him a message deeply regretting the reasons which had prevented him from being with them and assuring him that the British Legion was as united as ever in loyalty to King and country and to the Royal House, and of its devotion to mutual service and helpfulness.

Many of the delegates suggested that the Prince should be urged to come, but the President ruled out this course. He said they all had to regret the incidents which had prevented his Royal Highness from being with them, and they must see to it that such things did not occur again.

A message drafted by the president was unanimously approved with loud applause. The incidents to which the president referred, coupled with the recent dismissal of the editor of the Legion "Journal," hung heavily over the preliminaries of the conference. A meeting of so-called rebels convened at the instance of the East and West Horsa Branch and held last night at Brown's Cafe, proved exceedingly stormy and ended in an anti-climax, resolutions being adopted by overwhelming majorities declaring that the Legion was democratically controlled and regretting the calling of the meeting.

In his presidential address this morning Sir Frederick Maurice lost no time in bringing the trouble to a head. He declared, amid applause, that in view of the widespread publicity given to allegations of dissensions in the movement he proposed to answer them publicly there and then. He thereupon quoted extracts from articles which had appeared in certain Sunday newspapers alleging that the Legion had been "going down hill for a long time" and that the membership had dwindled by hundreds of thousands, but that this was a closely guarded secret by orders of the national executive. Nothing could be more absurd and ridiculous, he said, because a financial statement, certified by an eminent auditor, on which the in the circumstances, McCorkindale's form was not up to expectations. He tried many times to land hooks and swinging punches to the jaw, but never shook his opponent. Von Porat, on the other hand, proceeded smoothly through the ten rounds with accurate left-hand leading, against which the South African had no adequate defence or counter. Only for a moment in the eighth round, when Von Porat's left eye was injured, did McCorkindale appear to have a chance. The weather was cold and rainy and the 6,000 spectators watched from the stands.

At the Crystal Palace, Eddie Steele, of Norwood, beat Jim Hayton of Beckhampton, in the fourth round.

At the close of the session Lady Haig, who occupied a seat on the platform, handed the president a bronze replica of an equestrian statue of Field-Marshal Lord Haig, founder of the Legion, and asked that it should be placed on the chairman's table at each annual conference. It was announced that the delegates present numbered 1,130, a record attendance.

In the afternoon 10,000 legionsaries took part in a memorial parade and service on the sands, Lord Bath taking the salute in the absence of Prince George.

The conference adjourned till tomorrow.

membership of the Legion was calculated, was circulated to members every year. They had no secrets in the Legion, and the statements to which such publicity had been given were totally untrue.

Allegations of Revolt
As to allegations of revolt within the ranks of the Legion, Sir Frederick Maurice said that the election of the executive was in the hands of the conference, and that, except for two gentlemen who had resigned in the normal course after eight years devoted service, the same national executive had been returned this year as had served them last year. In a great body like theirs it was inevitable that there should be differences of opinion on matters of policy and administration, but the proper place for settling them was at the conference and not in the public Press.

He added that he was moved with indignation at the gross personal attacks made on their national chairman, Colonel Sir John Brown. No one had faced the difficulties of the movement with greater courage, good humour, and common sense than he. It had been suggested that the honour of knighthood received by the chairman was in return for selling the interests of his comrades on the occasion when a deputation waited on the Prime Minister and the Minister of Pensions on the question of the seven years' limit. (Cries of "Shame.") His (Sir Frederick's) comment on that was that it was he who led the deputation, and that he had no consultation with the chairman before presenting the case to the Prime Minister. (Cheers.)

After Sir John Brown had announced that he had instructed his solicitor to take legal proceedings immediately after the conference in respect of attacks on his personal honour, the President accepted a motion of urgency, handed in on behalf of seven branches, declaring that the conference endorsed the recent action of the national executive in dismissing the editor of the Legion "Journal." This was moved from the body of the hall, and supported by a large number of delegates. Sir John Brown made a statement on the circumstances of the editor's dismissal, and the resolution was carried with only two dissentients.

Increased Membership
Earlier in the proceedings the President announced that the paid-up membership of the Legion was now 342,000, an increase of 16,000 on last year.

Speaking of unemployment in derelict areas, he referred to the series of articles in "The Times," in which was mentioned the sense of isolation in many villages, where there had been no work for years and there was no prospect of work in future. He appealed to members of the Legion to break down this sense of isolation, and suggested that they might follow the example set when devastated French villages were adopted. The more fortunately placed branches might adopt branches in the depressed areas and send them a parcel of clothes, or the proceeds of some small entertainment. Comradely acts of this kind had a moral effect beyond the value of the goods sent.

Major-General Sir Frederick Maurice was unanimously re-elected president of the Legion. Major F. W. C. Fetherston-Godley was elected chairman, and Major J. B. Brunel Cohen was re-elected treasurer.

At the close of the session Lady Haig, who occupied a seat on the platform, handed the president a bronze replica of an equestrian statue of Field-Marshal Lord Haig, founder of the Legion, and asked that it should be placed on the chairman's table at each annual conference. It was announced that the delegates present numbered 1,130, a record attendance.

In the afternoon 10,000 legionsaries took part in a memorial parade and service on the sands, Lord Bath taking the salute in the absence of Prince George.

The conference adjourned till tomorrow.

NORTH CHINA CABLES

Companies Relinquish Lines

Shanghai, June 6.
The submarine cables from Shanghai to North China have been handed over to the Chinese Authorities by the Great Northern and Eastern Extension Telegraph Companies, which have worked these cables ever since they were laid. In future the cables will be operated by the Chinese Telegraph Administration.

The cables were laid in 1900 just after the Boxer Rebellion. Prior to the rebellion Peking, Tientsin and other northern points were connected telegraphically with Shanghai by land lines only, but during the revolt the land lines were more or less destroyed, with the result that North China was cut off telegraphically from the rest of China and from the outside world—a state of affairs which was of serious inconvenience especially to the foreign Legations at Peking and to the business communities there and at Tientsin.

Cables Handed Over
In these very critical circumstances the Great Northern and Eastern Extension Telegraph Companies came to the rescue and offered the Chinese Government to re-establish telegraphic communication with North China by using all the spare cable they had in stock locally for the purpose of laying a cable from Shanghai to Chefoo and Tientsin (Taku). Agreements were quickly concluded between the Chinese Telegraph Administration and the cable companies, and the cables were laid in the summer and autumn of 1900.

SIR JOHN SIMON

On The Arms Talks

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 26.
Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, poured a flood of cold water to-day on those fire-eating pacifists who are eternally demanding that Britain shall turn herself into an international washbuckler.

He spoke out plainly about those "boycoits" and "economic sanctions" that the fire-eaters want to impose on the countries that they dislike.

Sir John was speaking in a House of Commons debate about foreign policy. He listened to a series of speeches by Liberals and Socialists criticising the Government for its alleged inaction towards Disarmament and towards Japanese activity in Manchuria, and accusing it of weakening the League of Nations.

"It Is Not True"
"I believe in friendship," said Sir John, "and I believe in friendship with Japan."

It was not true that we, or as far as he knew, anybody else, had ever signed a treaty with China in which we had pledged ourselves to use all our forces to preserve the territorial integrity and political independence of China.

"I think," he said, "it is just a swell that that should be quite clearly understood."

Next he spoke about the problem of enforcing League of Nations decisions.

Economic sanctions was not a question which had been put aside by the Government, but there were obvious complications.

We must not assume that there was something which could be called an economic sanction different from war which could be lightly applied to all and sundry without the risk of war.

They did not solve this problem by talking rather airily of financial and economic pressure.

Supposing this was done, were they sure that the state upon which this pressure was applied was going to take it like a school-boy receiving chastisement?

Was it not possible that the state might say, "You may explain to me that it is not an unfriendly act, but that is not my view. My view is that it is?"

It was absolutely no use talking about economic pressure unless they could make certain that it was going to be effective.

Platitudes: "Exhausted"
So far as regarded at least some of the principal importing countries of the world they could not make that effective unless the United States would actively co-operate.

There was no good in pretending not to observe the limitations within which the United States was likely to act.

The real reason why there is this rather sudden wave of dejection and alarm over the whole population which is sincerely devoted to disarmament and peace is that we have exhausted the time when we could usefully express ourselves in perfectly sincere platitudes, and are right up against hard facts.

As for the reassembly of the Disarmament Conference at Geneva on May 29, he refused to take the view that we were at the end of a miserable adventure and that the least said the soonest mended.

"We Set An Example"
The British Government had in this matter given a lead throughout the world.

We were the one great Power that had set an example to the world in unilateral disarmament. We were the one Power at Geneva which had produced a scheme, the only Power that had dared to mention a figure of disarmament.

Sir John reviewed the efforts to obtain an agreement on the lines of the British Draft Convention, and the way in which that draft had been modified.

"I do not believe that we ought to go to Geneva and start any new initiative," said Sir John.

"We have tried to do our best. I think it is necessary now that we shall hear what other people have got to say and what positive offers they can suggest."

A "Calamity" If—
"Nothing shall be found wanting in Britain continuing to play its full part in saving the world from what undoubtedly is going to be a most serious calamity—the breakdown of the Disarmament Conference."

But, he added, "do not let us take the foolish view that if this should happen it would mean the end of the world."

"On the contrary, it would mean that we had got to start a new effort for the same purpose."

There is little to report regarding trade in British and Continental Woollens but it is evident that Japanese Woollens are entering this market on a larger scale and will be seen more and more in the future. Orders for Japanese Wool Venetians, Gabardines and Suitings have been placed, by Chinese Merchants at prices which defy competition from other countries. Japanese rayon is also flooding the market in certain deniers and is lower in price than any other make.

SHORTAGE OF LABOUR

Acute Position In Johore

Singapore, June 2.

Fears that the labour shortage in Johore will become even more acute than it is at present were expressed by members of the Johore Planters Association at the annual general meeting of the Association, held in the Johore Civil Service Club, yesterday.

Attention was also drawn to the position in regard to quit rent and it was stated that the Association would take up very strongly the question of a complete waiver in respect of reserve land which, under the rubber control enactment, may not now be planted on.

The chairman, Mr. J. W. E. Adams, said that the existing quota for Chinese labourers was far from adequate. In the oil palm producing districts the shortage had resulted in increased wage rates which were having an adverse effect on rubber planting. Reference was made to trouble which was being experienced from Chinese labourers.

Compliment To Her Cooking
"Look here, my man," she said, "will you please inform me why you've come begging at my door again? Why don't you try some of the other people in the road?"

"Can't," replied the tramp. "Doctor's orders, ma'am."

"Doctor's orders?"

"Yes, ma'am. My doctor told me that when I found the food that agreed with me, I should continue with it."

HEAT WAVE IN SHANGHAI
Twenty Children
Collapse

Shanghai, June 6.
Finding yesterday's heat too much for them, about twenty children collapsed due to heatstroke at the ceremonies held in honour of the memory of the late Fleet Admiral Marquis Togo.
The service lasted for more than 35 minutes and, in the sheltered compound of the Japanese School in Range Road, the sun blazed down on the unprotected heads of the 2,000 people gathered there, so that very many felt the effects in more or less degree.
Fortunately, however, the sponsors of the ceremony had foreseen the possibility of accidents happening and a doctor was on hand fully equipped to handle the emergency. None of the children proved to be seriously affected by the sun and, after a short treatment, returned to their homes without it being necessary to detain any of them for further treatment.

THE SPANISH THRONE

Ex-King Renounces
All Claims

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, May 26.
Ex-King Alfonso is stated to-day to have renounced his claim to the throne of Spain in favour of his third son, Don Juan de Bourbon.
Don Juan is at present a mid-shipman in the Enterprise, a cruiser on service at the East Indies station.
An Exchange message from Madrid declares that the ex-King has written to Monarchist leaders in Spain stating that he will not be prepared to accept the throne again.
This letter (adds the message) would appear to explain an editorial in the newspaper "A.B.C."
which suggests Prince Juan as the next King and urges all Royalists
to rally to his support.
RENEWED EFFORTS
A report from the Madrid correspondent of the Paris "Journal" (quoted by the Central News) adds that renewed efforts are being made to restore to the Spanish Throne a member of ex-King Al-fonso's family.
When plans for the acceptance of Don Juan as heir to the throne have been made in the past it has been found that he desires to be left to his career in the British Navy, in which he has served for several years. His two elder brothers have also renounced their rights of succession.
Alfonso Says "No"
A Spanish friend, who holds a high position in monarchist circles, tells the writer that ex-King
Alfonso has notified his friends privately that in no circumstances will he re-ascend his throne.
The renunciation is accompanied by a wish that the various Royalist factions should unite and recognise Prince Juan of Asturias as the sole claimant.
Steps are already being taken to achieve this end.
From the monarchist point of view the move is a wise one.
Prince Juan, who is in the British Navy, is physically and mentally the fittest of the ex-King's sons.
He stands a far better chance than his father, the prospect of whose return gives rise to misgivings even among monarchist sym-pathisers.

SWIMMING POOL FOR K.L.

No Interference By Resident

Kuala Lumpur, May 31.
A syndicate of Chinese and Europeans is intending to construct an up-to-date fresh water swimming pool in the grounds of one of Kuala Lumpur's hotels, writes a correspondent. If there is no opposition from the Sanitary Board or from the Government, the pool will be ready for use within three months. The syndicate has a capital of $50,000 behind it.
In this case the British Resident will be unable to veto the project as the land on which it is intended to construct the pool is private, belonging to one of the federal capital's many rich Chinese.
I understand that the Selangor Golf Club, which first mooted the idea several years ago but have been hampered by official opposition, have been informed of the decision of the syndicate, but no reply has as yet been received from them.
The hotel in question is the Eastern Hotel, in Ampang Road.
The size of the pool will be 100 feet by 80 feet, with a depth sloping from four to 12 feet.
There will be a concrete diving stage at the deep end. The inside of the pool will be cemented with white glazed tiles.
If the proposed pool materialises, the syndicate will proceed with plans for another, but smaller, pool in the same grounds for children.
A pool for the capital is a much-needed social amenity.
Swimming enthusiasts at the present have to choose between Port Dickson, about 50 miles away, and the Durian Tua hot springs,
17 miles from here.

WIDE ACTION DRAMA

"Gambling Ship"
Coming To Alhambra

Cary Grant, Benita Hume, Jack La Rue, Glenda Farrell and Roscoe Karns are featured in Paramount's high-tension "Gambling Ship," which comes on Wednesday to the Alhambra Theatre. It was directed by Louis Gasnier and Max Marcin.

THE MARCUS SHOW

A Rare Treat at The Queen's

Hongkong was given a really rare treat in the form of a first class show yesterday when the Greater Marcus Show opened its run at the Queen's Theatre to capacity houses at both the 5.15 and 9.30 performances.

Colossal, stupendous and all the other adjectives that give one an impression of something good and big, can justly be applied to this show which is generally regarded as the biggest and finest ever to visit this Colony.

The lengthy programme, which consisted of 27 scenes was carried through without a hitch, and each and every one of them won the admiration of the large audience as evidenced by the loud applause accorded.

Several of the numbers were excellent, especially "The Silver Goddess Item" and the dancing of "The Silver Maid" more than amazed everyone, as also "The All Babas." The comedians helped greatly to amuse the audience between the scenes. We congratulate Mr. A. B. Marcus and his Company on the excellent way they performed and we would advise those that have not seen the show not to miss it.

A MAN'S BEST FRIEND

"Smoky" At The King's Theatre

Taken from the pages for Will James' best seller "Smoky" Fox Film's latest release bearing the same title, comes to the King's Theatre on Tuesday. Irene Bentley and Victor Jory have the romantic leads, while Will James is cast in a prominent role. The author's name among the players stamps the film with a definite note of authenticity.

"Smoky" is the story of a horse whose vicious hatred of men brands him a killer. During the course of his life, he be-friends only one man, the man that has tamed and understood him. The friendship of the man and animal is so great, that when "Smoky" is stolen, his friend puts everything aside, including his love for his sweetheart, to go in search of his friend. In the years that follow, "Smoky" attains the reputation of the famous "courage" of the rodeos, and then sinks to the depths of a junk man's cart horse, abused and forgotten.

The film is said to portray the West with all its panoramic beauty, and to depict with astounding realism the colourful vigour of the rodeos. As a book, "Smoky" proved to be a favourite with thousands of readers, and from advance reports the film will prove to be equally popular.

Victor Jory who was last seen in "The Devil in Love", has the chief role. Irene Bentley, who is looked upon as an up and coming star, has the feminine lead. Miss Bentley will be remembered for her splendid characterization in Lillian Harvey's starring picture "My Weakness". The cast in support of the co-featured stars are Frank Campeau, Hank Mann, LeRoy Mason, Leonid Snegoff and Will James. Eugene Forde directed. Stuart Anthony and Paul Perez wrote the screen play.

It's the startling story of these brilliantly lighted vessels that blink at the law three miles off the West Coast, selling exhilaration to the jaded thrill-seekers. Here, where anything goes and everybody goes to do it, modern racketeers take on the manners and methods of the pirates of the old days running their sleek palaces of high-stakes on the high-seas.

Grant is splendidly cast in the role of a big-city racketeer who takes on the management of one of these joy, palaces to help a friend in trouble with the rival captain of another gambling ship. In the savage war that takes place between the two, are packed thrills and more thrills. The moment Grant takes charge it is war to the death, and only death, in a furious storm that wrecks the ships, puts an end to the war and brings a grand romance to a fitting conclusion.

If you like a high, wide and handsome action drama, in the new manner with a superlative cast, by all means, see "Gambling Ship." It's an exciting show.

BY CANDLELIGHT

"SIX OF A KIND" AT ALHAMBRA

"Six Of A Kind" which opened at the Alhambra Theatre last night is the funniest comedy to reach Hong Kong for a long while and is full of good clean comedy with a touch of burlesque here and there.

Featuring the new comedy partnership of Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland who appear together for the second time, the story is uproariously funny and the billiard room scene in which W. C. Fields figures is along worth a visit to the Alhambra.

Alison, Skipworth, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Paramount's leading comedians, are responsible for much of the mirth, while their

BY CANDLELIGHT CROSS COUNTRY RIDE

High Life In Royal Circles

As Second Honeymoon

"The advent of the talking picture has vastly increased the possibilities of screen comedy."

This is the statement of James Whale, director of "By Candlelight," Universal's Continental comedy by Siegfried Geyer, which is now at the King's Theatre, with Elissa Landi, and Paul Lukas in starring roles.

"In the old days of the silent picture," says Whale, "the comedy director encountered very real difficulties through the fact that the screen must alternate between pictured action and printed subtitles and that both could not be shown on the screen at the same time. The scene must always be interrupted so that the speeches of the characters could be thrown on the screen."

Thus the delicate nuances of comedy were either prohibited or placed under a decided disadvantage, and the comedy was therefore more of the obvious or rough variety that obtained almost without exception in the earliest days of the picture. The physical type of comedy was the requirement, and the screen displaced practically no examples of wit or sophistication.

"But the talking picture has changed all that, and true comedy on the screen has at last come into its own."

Whale advances the opinion that "By Candlelight" is an outstanding demonstration of the change in comedy, and points out that its success is entirely dependent on sophisticated dialogue and

"Six of a Kind" might be a swell poker hand, but in this particular case "Six of a Kind" is the title of a hilarious screen comedy showing at the Alhambra Theatre.

Laughs from slow, simple grins to rowdy, belly guffaws are furnished by a triple-barreled comedy combination consisting of Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, W.C. Fields, Alison Skipworth, and George Burns and Gracie Allen.

The picture was directed by Leo McCarey, one of Hollywood's outstanding comedy directors from an original story written by Keene Thompson and Douglas MacLean. Walter DeLeon and Harry Ruskin are credited with the screen play.

There is a running story to the picture, but it's laughs from start to finish. Briefly it tells the troubles of a happily married family, Ruggles and Mary Boland, who attempt to take second honeymoon in a cross-country auto trip. But things begin to happen; the moment they take Burns and Allen on as passengers, and by the time they get to W.C. Fields and Alison Skipworth, they're all "hatty" and the audience is in a laugh panic.

situation rather than physical horseplay. The cast, supporting Mary Boland and Gracie Allen, includes W.C. Fields, Alison Skipworth, George Burns, and Charlie Ruggles. The picture is a laugh riot from start to finish.

TRAFFIC SUMMONS FAILS

Summoned at the instance of Mr. F. T. Nicholson, Captain Walsh, R.A.S.C., who appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy last Friday for over-taking a stationary tram when driving his car on the near side in Whitfield, North Point, on May 22, was dismissed on Saturday morning.

Captain Walsh denied that summons against him, saying that the tram was not stationary at the time when he passed it. A witness corroborated his statement.

Mr. Hamilton, in dismissing the summons, said that Mr. Nicholson defendant at the time when the summons was served, and said that owing to evidence taken he could not find defendant guilty.

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

The summons against Mr. F. Grose for parking his car in Queen's Road West, was withdrawn at the Central Police Court on Saturday morning.

Mr. Horace Lo, who appeared on behalf of Mr. Grose, pleaded not guilty on Friday.

He said that Mr. Grose had parked his car in New Street, to attend a performance at the Koshing Theatre. On leaving the theatre Mr. Grose found that his car had been driven into Queen's Road. He did not know who had driven the car, but on enquiring was told that a Chinese chauffeur had moved the car.

Traffic-Inspector Nicol said on Saturday that he was not pressing the case, and that he was satisfied that the car had been moved.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

A fine of $10, in default 14 days' imprisonment, was imposed on Ip Cheung, an assistant stall-holder, by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy on Saturday for cruelty to three armadillos.

Defendant was arrested in Tai Ning Street, Shaokwan, last Friday, carrying the three animals in two cages.

COMPLAINANT MISSION

Li Fung Chan, 22-year-old boatman, was charged before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy for having stolen one sack of ground nuts, valued at $2, from the s.s. Yat Sing, having received stolen property, and having boarded the s.s. Yat Sing, lying at buoy B3, without a permit.

He pleaded not guilty, and, owing to no complainant being present, the defendant was discharged on the first two counts, but fined $15, in default, three weeks' imprisonment, on the third charge.

DRAMATIC GOLF DUEL

Lucky Escape For U.S. Champion

The amazing escape of George Dunlap, America's amateur champion, furnished the great thrill of the first round of the British Amateur Golf Championship here to-day.

Five down with five to play, a position so perilous as to suggest not the slightest hope, Dunlap won one of the most exciting matches it has ever been my good fortune to see, at the 22nd hole.

The opponent who so kindly let him off was G. P. Pakenham Walsh, of the Royal Calcutta Club, who was champion of India three years ago. A tall, sparsely built man, Walsh played for Oxford in 1921, when Tolley was captain.

It is safe to say that Walsh will never forget his tragic experience in a match which he hurled away with both hands.

Dunlap confessed quite freely that he ought never to have won. With the right hand creeping in to the shot, he hooked everything, with results entirely different from similar shots played at St. Andrews.

A Very Dejected Man
The American was five down, with thirteen holes played, and I doubt very much whether he would have been interested in a wager of 100 to 1 against him winning it by any chance such odds had been on offer.

Dunlap looked a very dejected man as he stood on the fourteenth tee waiting for the gullotine to drop. It did not drop, for Walsh was bunkered from the second shot, whereas Dunlap, for once in a way, hitting two good shots to the green, won the hole in four. When Walsh missed

For having possession and trying to pass bad money, Leung Wun, 18-year-old unemployed Chinese, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday. Detective Franklin prosecuted.

For hawking without license, Li Lan, 48-year-old widow, Lam Tai, 28-year-old widow, and Tseng Lin, 48-year-old widow, were fined one cent each by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday.

THEFT OF CLOTHING

Before Mr. Hamilton at the Central Police Court on Saturday morning a Chinese named Chan Chee Ming, described as an unemployed, was charged with theft of several suits of clothes, valued at about $15.

When questioned by the Chinese detective who arrested him, the accused said that the clothes were stolen from a Chinese named Lee Sang a tenant, living in Stanley, Aberdeen.

The defendant pleaded guilty and a sentence of two months hard labour was imposed.

COUNTERFEIT COINS

Arrested in Fort Street, Kowloon last Friday afternoon with four counterfeit Hong Kong ten-cent coins and a dollar in his possession, a Chinese named Leung Woon was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Police Court on Saturday morning.

The defendant pleaded guilty and told the Court that he did not know the coins were all counterfeit, because he just received them from his friend before he was arrested.

His Worship, however, did not believe his story, and after hearing the evidence, he sentenced the defendant to three months hard labour.

BANISHEE RETURNS

A Chinese named Kwok Ching Hung, a returned banishee, pleaded guilty before Mr. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy on Saturday morning to a breach of his Deportation Order.

The Police stated that the defendant was banished from the Colony on 27th November 1933 for a period of ten years, but was seen and arrested by a Chinese detective in Queen's Road Central last Friday evening.

The defendant in replying to his Worship, said that he returned to the Colony to ask his friend for some clothes and money.

A sentence of twelve months hard labour was passed.

BANKRUPTCY CASES

Interim Order Rescinded

Before His Honour Mr. A. D. A. Macgregor, the Chief Justice at the Bankruptcy Court on Saturday morning, an interim receiving order against the Wo Hop Firm was rescinded on the application of the Official Receiver, Mr. J. J. Hayden.

Mr. F. X. d'Almada, Snr., appearing for the petitioning creditor, Lau Ping Chau, stated that the debtor firm owed his client $779.83, and that an interim receiving order had been made, the grounds of bankruptcy being a notice of the suspension of payment of debts.

Lau Ping Chau, in evidence stated that he had received the notice of suspension of payment. The managing partner of the Wo Hop Firm had told him that the firm held goods valued at $60,000, and about $50,000 debts. The liabilities were approximately $250,000, and there were doubtful debts amounting to approximately $70,000.

Mr. Hayden opposed the application, and the interim order was withdrawn.

RECEIVING ORDER MADE

A receiving order was made against the King Chung Loong Firm, on the petition of Chung Sze Chu, represented by Mr. F. G. Nigel.

Yong Hong Long, manager of the petitioning firm, stated that when he received a notice of the suspension of payment by the debtor firm, they owed his firm $10,334.55.

As the result of the notice sent by the King Chung Loong firm, he had sent a foki to their premises, and this foki had been told that the managing partners had all absconded.

There had been no accurate method of ascertaining the financial position of the firm, but a paper was found by the foki which showed debts to the extent of $3,000.

Witness stated that he had conferred with the other creditors who had agreed on the course of action he had taken.

Mr. Nigel, stating that the assets appeared to be much less than 15 per cent. of the liabilities, asked that the receiving order should be made.

PARTNER PETITION AGAINST OWN FIRM

The hearing of the petition of bankruptcy against the Yu Chun Sauce Factory, and Cheng King, Li Pook San and Mak Yik Yu, managing partners, was adjourned on the application of Mr. H. L. Dennis, acting on behalf of the petitioning creditor, Muk Yik Pun, in view of evidence brought forward by Mr. F. H. Loseby, who opposed the petition.

Mr. Loseby opposed the petition on the grounds that the petitioning creditor was a partner in the Yu Chun Sauce Factory, and, therefore, could not apply for the bankruptcy of the firm. Supporting his opposition he produced two documents signed by the petitioning creditor as a partner in the firm.

Mr. Dennis stated that he had not hitherto heard of these documents. His Lordship adjourned the case, in order that a trial of the issue as to whether the petitioning creditor was a partner, or not, could be held.

CASE WITHDRAWN

A petition for the bankruptcy of the King Nam Construction Company and Lau Wah, Choy Wing Cheuk, partners, was withdrawn on the application of Mr. H. L. Dennis, appearing for Lam Shing, petitioning creditor.

Mr. Dennis stated that it had been disclosed that the assets of the firm were in excess of 15 per cent. of the liabilities, and that on the recommendation of Mr. J. J. Hayden, the Official Receiver, he wished to apply for withdrawal.

from off the sea with his second shot.

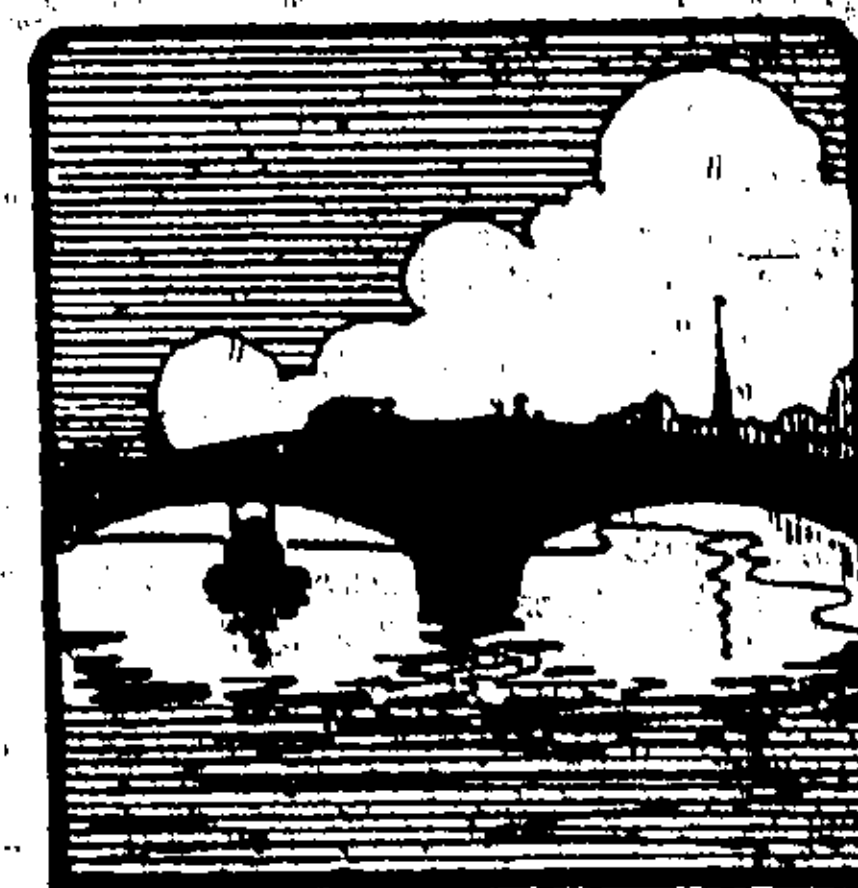

Into The Pow Burn
The end came at the fourth where Walsh cut his second shot into the famous Pow Burn. Dunlap would have shared the same fate, but by great good fortune his shot struck a spectator and rebounded on to the green.

"I must be the luckiest man in the world," said Dunlap as he walked back to the clubhouse. "I never dreamed I should get away with it, but my opponent was very kind with those short putts."

America lost her Walker Cup captain, Francis Ouimet, in today's first round. He was beaten by a fellow-countryman, G. Moreland, by one hole.

H. Chandler Egan and Max Marston, two other prominent Americans, were also defeated to-day.

TOMI MARU REFLOATED

The Japanese freighter, Tomi Maru, which went aground off Pratas Island, 180 miles from Hong Kong on June 1, was successfully refloated on Saturday morning with the assistance of the Japanese tug which was chartered from Japan.

The Tomi Maru, which was on her way to Singapore at the time, is said to have sustained considerable damage to the fore hold and was said to have sprung a leak. A large amount of coal, which was being carried as cargo, was discharged in order to lighten the vessel.

The Talkoo Dockyard Company's tugboat also went to the assistance of the vessel, but returned to Hong Kong last Wednesday morning.

The local agents the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, were unable to state where the Tomi Maru will proceed for repairs.

PIRATES IN HONG KONG

Warning Issued By Police

A communique issued by Police Headquarters on Saturday is to the effect that information has been received that a gang of some fifteen men, reputed to be pirates, recently left Chinese territory from the M'is Bay or Bias Bay area, and are said to be in Hongkong for the purpose of committing a piracy.

The accuracy of the information received is uncertain. No further details are available.

LESSON SERMON

First Church Of Christ Scientist

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 3rd.

The Golden Text was: "On let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end; but establish the just: for the righteous God trieth the hearts and reins" (Psalms 7:9).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye shall be holy: for I the Lord your God am holy. And ye shall not swear by my name falsely, neither shall thou profane the name of thy God: I am the Lord. Regard not them that have familiar spirits, neither seek after wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the Lord your God" (Leviticus 19: 1, 2, 12, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Mind rightly demands man's entire obedience, affection, and strength. No reservation is made for any lesser loyalty. Obedience to Truth gives man power and strength. Submission to error super-induces loss of power" (p. 183).

SIKH ARRESTED FOR STABBING

Incident On Board Ship

When two Sikhs fell out on the s.s. Calcutta Maru, shortly after 12.30 on Saturday, there were ugly consequences, as one drew a knife on the other and inflicted a serious stab wound which may prove fatal.

The man injured is Banter Singh, living at the Sikh Temple, who was visiting an acquaintance on the ship when the incident occurred.

The alleged assailant is named Nand Singh. He is now in police custody.

The Question Of Peace And Justice

YESTERDAY'S SERMON BY THE
RT. REV. BISHOP HALL

What Is The Real Meaning Of Peace?

"PEACE AND JUSTICE"

"Religion and Patriotism" lead straight to the question of "Peace and Justice." Conflicts with other nations rise out of questions of justice.

Peace and Justice are classical ideals rather than religious. If you contrast them with two other ideals, "Love" and "Humility," you will realize what I mean. There was little in the Classical World to describe Love as His friends saw it in Jesus Christ. Such Love was more than affection, and had nothing to do with passion. Affection and passion were all that the world knew about Love before Christ. In the same way the Greco-Roman World knew something of that reserve, and self-effacement which is part of the character of greatness, but the passionate humility of Jesus Christ who took upon Himself the form of a servant was unknown to human thought, as a possible kind of greatness until Christ came, and lived it. It must be known to all you here that a new word had to be coined to describe Jesus' way of Love.

My main suggestion for your thought this morning is that Peace and Justice have not yet received the kind of demonstration in the common life of men that Love and Humility received in the early days of the Church. And because Christian Peace and Christian Justice have not been adequately lived out in the world we do not really know what they are like, or what a world might be like in which they were practised. Peace, as we think of it is the Roman Peace secured by a strong and efficient administration. Justice is still the Roman Justice. It is concerned more with the prevention of injustice than with any positive ideal.

Spiritual Problem.

We are often told that the problem of the world to-day is not an economic problem or a military problem, but a spiritual problem. We might as well say that we have made a personality clearer when we have called him Mr. X. We might as well say that the world's problem is an 'X' Problem. We must define what we mean by a 'spiritual problem.' My belief is that because we know that a man's possibly 'costly' and unspiritual solution of a problem depletes his life we will not face it but content ourselves with talking vaguely about 'spiritual issues.'

Spiritual is a new Testament word, and those who use the word 'Spiritual' must admit reference to the New Testament or coin a new word. If they use the word 'Spiritual' and mean it they must bring it to the test of Jesus of Nazareth. The spiritual life of the New Testament owes everything to Him. My view of the spiritual issue of to-day is that we are still floundering in an attempt to express the spirit of Jesus in our corporate life.

Love and Humility are essentially personal virtues. These could be seen and they were seen, and thank God they are seen still in the lives of those who are able to live as Christ intended that we should. Love and Humility are therefore accepted as the ideal way of life. Think yourself back into a world which had never seen the love and humility of Jesus, but only the Gentleness of the Greek or the Chinese tradition, and the Stoic Hero of the Roman world. We are in the same position in relation to the Corporate Virtues, Peace and Justice, as the Greco-Roman world was in relation to those individual virtues of Love and Humility. The great task of the Christian world to-day is to give corporate expression to the Christian way of life.

Renegade Movement.

Many of you are, I know, perturbed at the increasing interest in politics and economics and in public questions taken by Christian leaders. You regard it as a betrayal of the Christian pursuit of individual goodness. You regard it as a definite renegade movement from the beautiful Christianity of the comfortable homes of your youth. But I would ask you to notice one or two things:—

First of all, as the Christian Church in its early days grew in numbers, in influence, and in ability, its great thinkers inevitably turned to problems of corporate living. St. Augustine represents the final theological flowering of the first phase of the Christian Church. His greatest book is called "The City of God." Now, within the last few months a book with a similar title has been written not by a theologian but by a man typical of the great era of political thinking for which Christian Britain has been so largely responsible. The early Christians were primarily theologians. Their thought about God led them to an attempt to express the Christian life in terms of political life. Some of the best Christian minds of our day have not been theologians but political thinkers and men of action. They have been driven to theology. It is remarkable that the man who has been in some ways the thought-centre for most of the political experiments which have taken place in India and South Africa in this century should have been driven to write a book with the title "The City of God," in which Jesus of Nazareth and His teaching is made the pilot and the centre of all political progress.

Neither Christ, nor the facts of life, will let us leave these questions alone. May I describe to you further what happened not in the history of Christian thought but in the field of Christian action. The Church was for many centuries called upon to take a responsible share in the public life of the world. The Bishop of Durham, for example was "Prince-Bishop" entrusted by the King for the maintenance of the peace of the border. In the same way our English system of justice owes its peculiar and perhaps unique position amongst the judicial systems of the world because it was made by men who were primarily Christian bishops and abbots. Because of their position and ability they were for several centuries the lawgivers of our nation. It is against the anvil of responsibility that a Christian way must be beaten out.

Responsibility

My first introduction to these vast problems of peace and justice was in Peiping in 1922. I came straight from Oxford to a world gathering of Christian leaders in which forty nationalities including German and French met together in the frankest friendliness and honesty. I shall never forget the moment when a man who had been Reichs-Chancellor of the German Empire Herr Niemöller stood up at the end of the table and pleaded in the name of Justice for the revision of the Treaty of Versailles. He said, "Germany stands naked and ashamed before the world because her leaders were compelled to sign a lie at Versailles."

If the present regime in Germany is a menace to world peace the reason lies back in that deep feeling of injustice when we essayed to make peace by compelling a brother country to sign what they did not believe to be the truth.

That same Meeting was to me also an introduction to the problem of responsibility. I could not help noticing that the representatives of all the nations who had responsibility as Britain has responsibility for India, Japan for Korea, France and Germany for their frontiers—the representatives of all the nations who had positions of responsibility for the defence of others were against the pacifist view. Nearly all representatives of countries for whom responsibility for defence was not an urgent question took the pacifist view. This was true of representatives of Australia, New Zealand, the United States, India, and China. I have since found that the same Chinese Christian leaders who in those days were completely pacifist are now either puzzled or definitely non-pacifist. In 1922 they were firmly convinced that the League of Nations would continue to defend them as it had just done from an aggressive neighbour. In other words, responsibility for defence has only now become for young Chinese a real issue.

At that Meeting too in Peiping, when I was so rudely faced with the terrible difficulty of the problems of peace and justice between the nations, I had also a glimpse of a Christian Peace and Justice which go beyond anything that those words now convey to us.

"What Do You Mean by 'Peace'?" I can only, therefore, ask a series of questions and suggest at the end a possible way out.

My first question is this, and it is directed to those Christians who are puzzled about their attitude ships to the League of Nations and to the surrender of national sovereignty which seems to be essential if there is to be a real League: "When you pray for peace for the world, when you long for it, what picture exactly is in your mind? Do you merely want the cessation of wars in order that the waste of men and material with all its cruel folly may not again blight our pleasant world? Or do you see a positive life of international brotherhood which is fuller and richer than national life and develops human personality beyond what national life at its best can do?" I have seen and experienced in our contacts with men and women of other races that peace in a Christian sense means living with other nations as members of one body, and that its value both to God and to men is much greater than the national life just as the life of a city or village is of more value than the life of the solitary castaway on a desert island. That ideal life is I believe demanded for the national life of men as much as love and humility are demanded for the private life of men by the coming of God into the world in Jesus Christ. And His showing to us the possibility of the Kingdom of God.

Don't Be in a Hurry.

My second question is: "What is your conception of Justice? Is it adequate to the world as it is today and as it has been down the centuries?" What I mean is this. God has made a world which for more centuries than we can imagine has been the scene of cruelty, of pillage, of warfare, of every kind of injustice. And because in the short two thousand years since Christ came we have not been able to establish justice we tend to despair either of God or of the world He has made. Those who despair of God say, "If there is God He is unjust so I shall have no dealings with Him, beyond what I must." Or they say, "The world is wholly evil. Christ's Kingdom is something with little relation to this life. Let us content with personal religion, and not attempt too desperately to change the world." I want to ask whether both these views are adequate to our faith in the Incarnation; our faith that the God who has made this world what it is came in Jesus Christ and suffered at the hands of his creatures the maximum injustice.

The Life of the Spirit.

My third suggestion to you is that you will find if you read carefully both gospels and epistles that the life of the spirit is essentially a corporate life.

You will find also that our Hymn Book contains practically no reference to what was always on Jesus' lips, "The Kingdom of God." Is it not possible then that it only the Christian Church can achieve by daring experiments new ways of cooperative living she will find the spiritual solution to the problems of to-day. In matters of Peace and Justice we still use the tools of a pagan world. They are fine tools but they are inadequate as pagan religion is inadequate to the Twentieth Century which God has made.

Ideals and Realities.

Here is another question which may help your thought. You will find in the realm of politics and economics a conflict between those who desire freedom in trade and those who desire freedom in international relations and in domestic political life. Those who are most concerned to maintain economic freedom who dream of taking much greater risks in disarmament in order to secure international cooperation are equally clamant in their insistence that the commercial and financial life of the world must be strictly controlled. This division of opinion suggests again that in these matters of international peace and justice men are not fully rational. In each case there is some passionate desire, interest dictating an apparently rational policy. We are back, therefore, in the field of the

KWANGTUNG ARSENAL

Increased Output Of Arms

Latest reports from the Chinese sources state that owing to the urgent needs of arms and ammunition for the Canton Armies for the suppression of bandits and communists, Mr. Ho Wing, head of the Kwangtung Provincial Arsenal has given instructions for the increase of the output.

At present, large quantities of arms and ammunition have been manufactured and are ready to be distributed among the different armies when despatched to their respective fronts.

It is also reported that recently several new sets of new machines have been added to the arsenal by the Army Headquarters for this purpose.

emotions. Peace and Justice can be secured when men desire them with all their being. It is only when an ideal is held with intense emotion that it can be realised.

A Long View.

I shall attempt in my last talk to be more practical about to-day and to-morrow but I do want to say now that being practical must include taking a very long view. It must include a great deal of compromise on the road between our ideals and their final goal. My desire to-day is only to suggest that we have not yet seen the true meaning of Christian peace and justice. It may well be the task of our generation not to abolish war but to make experiments and demonstrations in Christian ways of co-operative living, which will provide, sufficiently strong emotional objectives to make final eradication of War inevitable.

LOCAL WEDDING

Helena May Secretary
Married

WESTLAND—GASPER

Union Church, Kennedy Road was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon when Miss Dorothy Wilson Westland, former secretary and treasurer of the Helena May Institute was married to Mr. Arthur Clarence Lamb Gasper, of the Chinese Maritime Customs.

The bride is the only daughter of the late Mr. C. Westland and Mrs. Westland of Kandy, Ceylon, and the bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. A. Gasper and Mrs. Gasper of London.

The Rev. E. G. Powell, vicar of the Church, officiated.

Attired in a beautiful gown of beige lace with hat and veil to match and carrying a bouquet of gladioli, the bride made a charming picture as she walked up to the altar in the arm of the Hon. Sir Thomas Southorn, K.B.E. by whom she was given away. She was attended as bridesmaids by Miss Marie Paterson and Miss Catherine Markham who both wore frocks of yellow georgette and carrying bouquets of flame gladioli.

The Matron of honour was Mrs. E. D. C. Wolfe who wore a dress of beige, and brown viola with a brown hat.

The duties of bestman were performed by Commander T. B. Morpeth, R.N., and the groomsmen were Messrs. R. Wolfenden and A. Cairns.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at St. John's Place, Garden Road. Sir Thomas Southorn proposed the health of the happy couple, and in doing so, he said that on an occasion of this kind, as so very often happened in the Colonies, weddings have had to take place without the presence of the nearest or closest relative of the bride or bridegroom.

The regret at the absence of the happy couple's families was shared by all their friends who knew only too well how much their families longed to be here to witness the happy union and join in the good wishes.

In circumstances such as this, it was not unusual for one of the oldest friends of the happy couple to become invested for a moment with the special privilege and responsibility, such as had fallen to his lot. "And that is why you have seen me to-day performing parental duties such as I have only once before performed, and like the well-known Lord Chancellor, giving a delightful girl away."

Sir Thomas said that his knowledge of the Westland family went back to those dim and distant ages before the war, as a young district officer in Ceylon. "It was nice after a hot ride through miles of jungle to arrive at the Gammaduwa estate of the Westland family and receive a hearty welcome and enjoy the hospitality of the Westland bungalow."

In those days, said Sir Thomas, he did not know Dorothy (Miss Westland) and suspected that she was an infant at school in Scotland or England. It was a good many years after, not long before he came to Hong Kong, that he first met the bride at the house of some very old friends in Kandy. He then made the same discovery as Mr. Lamb Gasper had made here, "that we found a pearl of great price."

"So highly did we esteem this pearl that when we heard that the Secretaryship of the Helena May Institute was to be vacated my wife ventured to suggest to the board of controllers that for once, Ceylon might export something useful to Hong Kong, and not merely Government servants. Dorothy came and conquered."

"She has looked after the 'Helena Maidens' as a distinguished Chief Justice used to call them for several years with a tact and devotion which, however much it pleased the members of the Institute, evidently pleased Mr. Lamb Gasper even more for he wisely decided to transfer these abilities to his own establishment."

"Man Of Right Stuff"

Sir Thomas said that he had not the pleasure of knowing Mr. Lamb Gasper for very long, but did not need to know him long to realise that he was a "man of the right stuff." "If he wasn't, he would never have won Dorothy's affection for she is a lady of rare sense," said Sir Thomas.

"They are a happily matched pair entitled to congratulate themselves on their respective choices and are certain of the congratulatory

THE SELLER MUST STILL BEWARE

It may be that the President's conferences with the "Frankfurter lawyers" who drew up the Securities Act mean that the agitation for the revision of that act has entered upon its final stage. Such is the general impression. For some time past the President has been reported to be getting ready to recommend revision of the reform measure against which financial and business interests have protested more than against any other offspring of the New Deal. What has hitherto held back revision has been the immoderate nature of the criticism levelled against the act. This criticism has had a parallel in the case of stock market regulation. Seemingly it came as a shock to laissez faire financial interests that the disclosures of boom era mismanagement should be followed by corrective legislation.

Moderate-minded financiers have all along seen the need for closing up the holes in the law which fostered the abuses of the boom era. The old common law pertaining to fraud was not enough. Lee Higginson's failure to require or to disclose that it had not required, a proper audit of Kreuger & Toll was not intentional fraud. Yet it was gross negligence, which cost American investors millions of dollars. It is protection against precisely this kind of thing that investors obtain under the new Securities Act. If those who offer a security include, in their formal description filed with the Federal Trade Commission, a misrepresentation or a half-truth serious enough to affect the judgment of the average buyer in his decision to purchase the security, they are liable. This clause is taken bodily out of the British Companies Act.

Where the Securities Act apparently needs revision is in the clarification of responsibility for statements in the prospectus. The British law releases the issuing banker if the erroneous statement has been verified by competent accountants. The Securities Act affords no such safeguard. No matter who the expert, every director of the capital-raising corporation, every officer of the issuing bank, every underwriter, is liable.

Clarification of liability is also necessary. Suppose a security comes into possession of an investor in the open market. That is, he does not buy it from the security seller, but from somebody who bought it from the security seller. Even then, under the Securities Act, he could recover damages from the security seller on the strength of a misrepresentation in the prospectus. Under the British law there is liability only to those who bought the security "on the faith of" the prospectus.

Other clarifications may be necessary. The problem will be to make them without weakening this "Truth in Securities" Act. The investing public may safely leave that problem in its present hands. Without doubt the need to stimulate the flow of private capital into private enterprise is one of the most urgent needs at the present time. But the experience of the recent past rises up to point the equal need that in channelling this capital to industry the capital user shall beware lest he make any misrepresentations or does not take proper care in asking for his capital.

AGROUND

Mishap In Manila Bay

The Changte which was due to arrive in Hongkong on Tuesday ran aground in Manila Bay on Friday. The Australian Oriental liner was on her way to Hongkong en route from Australia.

Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, Ltd., the local agents, refused to disclose the nature of the damage done, or whether the vessel is expected to re-float.

The Changte is a sister ship of the Taiping. She was built in Hongkong in 1925 by the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company for the E. and O. Line.

She is a single screw vessel of 4,324 gross and 2,579 nett tonnage, with a speed of 13 and three quarters knots and an overall length of 352.3 feet.

Playing between the East and Australia, the Changte is one of the most popular vessels. Manila, Thursday Island and Australian ports are her regular ports.

News were received last night that the s.s. Changte is still aground in Manila Bay, and is now waiting for a tug boat to re-float her.

It was stated that no serious damage was done.

If Gossip We Must

(By "PRUDENCE")

June the 4th has come and gone and even the most sophisticated of our Bright Young People freely admit that it was quite the gayest and most amusing holiday of the year.

Moreover the Clerk of the Weather was particularly kind, altho' torrents of rain fell on Sunday night, and a perfect deluge on Tuesday, there was not even a shower to mar the success of the Naval and Military Parade on Monday morning, or the Ball at Government House that night.

Parents on the Peak certainly "did their stuff" on the King's Birthday, and dozens of eager little boys and girls were shepherded down in the tram to see the Parade, and were duly thrilled by the "feu de joie" and the March Past at the end. A cheery crowd collected at the Hongkong Club afterwards to drink the health of His Majesty King George V. and we feel sure that all those interested in Scouting and Cubbing must have been very pleased to learn that their energetic and popular Commissioner, the Rev. G. T. Waldergrave was one of the fortunate recipients of "Birthday Honours".

The Governor's Ball brought this successful day to a brilliant conclusion. It is said that more invitations were issued this year than before, and we can well believe it, for many hundreds of people came up to the dais to shake hands with His Excellency The Governor, and their charming hostess that night, Lady Peel looked most delightful in a gown of deep hyacinth-blue which suited her marvellously.

A happy snapshot of punters at the last race meeting of the "early" season.

MUSIC AND LAUGHTER

The grounds of Government House were beautifully illuminated, and the rainbow tints of a myriad coloured lamps, and the strains of an excellent Regimental Band lured a great many onto the green lawns facing the harbour. Other people preferred to play bridge and of course all the young people drifted into the ballroom.

At such a huge gathering it is impossible to note even half the people present, yet, even in the biggest crush, there are some whom one cannot miss. Among these I noticed Lady Southern in a most attractive dress of vieux-rose taffeta, delicately shot with a paler shade, and Mrs. Gordon Mackie, who looked charming in cinnamon shadow-lace.

There were some very brilliant dresses, but on the whole I think that white proved more popular than colours on Monday night. Mrs. Borrett looked magnificent all in white with a coronet of pearls. Mrs. "Teddy" Cook, too, looked very handsome in ivory-white. Mrs. J. H. Morris was charmingly gowned in supple white, and her daughter Sylvia looked very young and lovely in white satin with diamante on the shoulders.

Mrs. Douglas Valentine looked very fresh and dainty in snow-white satin and net, and Madame de Precourt too looked radiant in white. Mrs. Glynn Evans chose cream colour, and Miss Hay-Edie was "very easy to look at" in soft cream lace. Mrs. Mousley wore a foamy dress of pure white organdie, and Miss Evelyn Humphreys had a flame coloured sash with her dress of white brocade.

AND LOVELY DRESSES
Miss Marion Wolfe looked very sweet in white, powdered with cherry-red, and Mrs. Prior, too, chose this attractive colouring. Miss Margaret King looked almost incredibly slim, in sheer white lace, but her sister Rosemary wore a vivid dress of flowered chiffon. Mrs. Digby chose prettily blended gergette, and Miss Barbara Hance had a simply fascinating frock of poppy-green with just a touch of red, and narrow velvet shoulder-straps. Another distinctive dress was the crisp blue organdie with transparent balloon-sleeves, worn by Mrs. Brasier-Creagh.

Mrs. Hole made me think of moonlight, in her spangled frock of midnight-blue. Miss Lucy Lock was shadowy in mauve, and Miss Crawhall-Wilson looked rather mysterious in dim green. I loved the shimmering, sea-green satin, chosen by Mrs. L.C.F. Bellamy and the graceful dress of honey-coloured lace worn by Mrs. Harry Butters.

Mrs. J. H. Little had a captivating frock of frilly pink, the colour of her lovely rose-quartz pendant. Mrs. Shillington was more beautiful than ever in willow-green, and I fell in love with the tiny frills of flowered white and blue worn by Mrs. Walsh. Mrs. Facken caught my eye in scarlet, and Miss Jean Mackie had an adorable dress of peach, while Mrs. Maclean was quite delicious in azure, blue that matched her eyes.

Mrs. Owen-Hughes wore a spray of roses on her black dress and Mrs. Tetley, too, looked charming in black, while Mrs. Lewis Bryan achieved distinction in black and silver. Mrs. W.B.A. Moore looked wonderfully cool and pale in apricot, taffeta and Miss Yvonne Shenton (lovely as always) had a dress of pearl-white satin with shoulder knots of mulberry ribbon. I rather think that Miss Bee Walker was one of the various "Cinderellas" who vanished on the stroke of midnight, to change their dance dresses for swimming-suits, and the ballroom for some distant beach, and if there is a better way of ending a moonlit night in June, please let me know!

WEDDING BELLS.

The Union Church at Kennedy Road was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Saturday, when Miss Dorothy Westland was married to Mr. Arthur Clarence Lamb-Gasser, of the Chinese Maritime Customs, and of Kensington, London.

The bride is well-known locally, since she was for several years the Secretary of the Helena May Institute. (Continued on Page 12)

It is reported by the "Central China Daily News" that the Chinese national budget for the present fiscal year shows a deficit of no less than $100,000,000 according to the Auditing Bureau's accounts. The total expenditure of the present fiscal year is $918,685,457 while the income is $818,515,000. In addition to this information it is stated that about $45,000,000 goes towards military expenses.

While proceeding from Tsingtao to Taku, the Chinese warship Yungshiang was surrounded by more than twenty pirate boats outside Lungkow, northern Shantung coast, with the apparent intention of seizing arms and ammunition on the warship. After a brief encounter, the boats were put to flight. The warship arrived in Taku safely, according to a Chinese message from the north.

Playing at Murray Barracks on Saturday night, Mrs. M. Smith won the South Wales Borderers' Ladies' Club whist Drive and Tombola by 153 points to Mrs. R. Higgs' 143 points. Mrs. M. Taylor with 123 points came third. In the Men's section, Mr. E. Jones with 148 points came first, while Mr. G. Harvey and Mr. E. Williams returned scores of 142 and 133 to take second and third places respectively.

More than 200 dancers took advantage of the 1. a.m. extension on Saturday night at Repulse Bay Hotel and the time passed all too quietly in the accompaniment of the "Andertonians" high class dance music. These melody makers under the baton of their leader, Andre, are, according to popular acclaim, by far, the best dance band in the Colony. Many of the younger set decided not to call it a night at 1. a.m. and when the dancing was finished, quite a number changed to bathing costumes and adjourned to the beach for a swimming party. It was a pleasant sight to see so many prominent professional and commercial people of the Colony present, and also to note that Repulse Bay is again the Saturday night rendezvous of Hong Kong Society.

ANGLO-FRENCH ACCORD AT GENEVA

A Definite Advance In Arms Talk

London, June 9. The Lord Privy Seal, Captain Anthony Eden, left Geneva last night on the conclusion of the meeting of General Commission at the Disarmament Conference at which a compromise resolution ensuring continuance of work of Conference and offering Germany an opportunity to return to Geneva had been carried. The French Foreign Secretary, M. Barthou also left for Paris.

London, June 8. The deadlock at Geneva has been resolved and the acceptance by the Disarmament Conference General Commission, this afternoon of a resolution re-asserting the necessity for security and a general Disarmament convention and outlining an immediate programme of work to that end, marks a definite advance which has caused keen satisfaction in official circles in London.

As the result of prolonged consultations between the British, French and United States delegations on Thursday night, M. Louis Barthou, the French delegate, accepted modifications of the draft resolution which he submitted on June 6, and in its final form, which has now received the full approval of the Commission, it recognises the necessity of the return of Germany to the Conference, and brings within its purview exchanges between the principal European Powers as disclosed in the notes and declarations recently published.

The restoration of complete Anglo-French accord is particularly welcomed here, and a cordial reception is assured M. Barthou, who has announced his intention of visiting London early next month.

French Resolution.

The resolution which was submitted to the General Commission by M. Barthou declares that in taking into consideration the resolutions submitted by the delegations of six powers, the Turkish delegation and the delegation of the U.S.S.R. respectively, and taking into account the clarification of its work resulting from the French memorandum of January 1, the Italian memorandum of January 4, the United Kingdom memorandum of January 29 and the German declaration of April 16, it is convinced of the necessity of the conference continuing its work with a view to arriving at a general convention for the reduction and limitation of armaments, and is resolved to continue without delay the investigations already undertaken.

The resolution, invites the Bureau to seek by whatever means it deems appropriate and with a view to the general acceptance of a Disarmament convention, the solution of the outstanding problems without prejudice to private conversations on which the Governments will desire to enter in order to facilitate final success by the return of Germany to the Conference.

Three Decisions.

The resolution proceeds that having regard to the peculiar importance presented by the study and solution of certain problems to which attention was drawn at the beginning of the general discussion, the Commission takes the following decisions:

First Security. Since the earlier work of the Conference has enabled certain regional security agreements to be concluded in Europe during the past year, the General Commission decides to appoint a special committee to conduct such preliminary studies as it may consider appropriate in order to facilitate the conclusion of further agreements of the same nature which may be negotiated outside the Conference.

It would be for the General Commission to determine the relationship of any of these agreements to the general convention.

The General Commission also decides to appoint a special committee to study the question of guarantees of execution and to resume the work relating to supervision.

Secondly, air force. The General Commission instructs its air committee to resume forthwith the study of the questions mentioned under its resolution of July 23, 1932.

Thirdly, trade in, and manufacture of, arms. The General Commission requests its special committee to resume its work forthwith in the light of the statement made by the United States delegation on May 30, and to report to it as early as possible on the solution it recommends.

Work on Parallel Lines

The resolution adds that these committees will work on parallel lines co-ordinated by the Bureau Commission leaving it to the Bureau to take the necessary steps at a proper time to ensure that when the President convenes the commission it will have before it, as far as possible, a complete draft convention.

Finally, the resolution requests the President, Mr. Arthur Henderson, to submit to the various Governments, the U.S.S.R. proposal to declare the Conference a permanent institute under the title of Peace Conference.

In submitting the resolution, Mr. Barthou paid warm tributes to the United States and British delegates, and referring to the recent heated exchanges with the British Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, said that when any difference divided France and England, "We talk frankly and then reach an agreement."

Capt. Eden's Thanks.

Captain Anthony Eden, the British delegate thanked the United States delegate, Mr. Norman Davis, and M. Barthou, whose joint and willing collaboration had made it possible to reach an agreement, and said the agreement would facilitate the return of Germany to Geneva, adding that the past difficulties had been due largely to the absence of a great Power whose presence was essential.

Ever since Germany's withdrawal in October, the cause of Disarmament and international understanding had suffered from that incident.

Mr. Norman Davis, praised the fine spirit and breadth of view with which the French and British had endeavoured to reconcile their differences, and described the compromise resolution as a distinct contribution to peace in Europe which had changed the atmosphere from despair to real hope.

The General Commission will meet again on Monday to set up the various committees recommended in the resolution.—British Wireless.

GERMANY'S RETURN Equality Rights First

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, June 9. The formula finally evolved in Geneva was characterised by the semi-official "Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz" here on Saturday as an outcome of exhaustion rather than a well considered agreement.

"The adjournment till October is virtually an adjournment sine die," comments the paper, "because the various commissions appointed to work simultaneously are not charged with the working out of the long sought convention. The Italian Government is the only country which took the logical and honourable course by refusing to be a party to camouflage their tactics."

The German standpoint regarding the hope expressed that Germany will be persuaded to return to Geneva, is that the best material for disarmament is security for all and insists that practical proofs be forthcoming that the solemnly promised equality rights be met with first. In this direction the initiative can come from France alone.—Transocean Kuo Min.

THE FATHERS' SINS

Riga, June 9. When "traitors" escape from Russia, their relatives will be punished with imprisonment, forced labour, and banishment to Siberia whether they themselves are guilty or innocent, according to a decree issued by the Soviet Government.—Reuter.

TALKS REACH A CLIMAX

Agreement By Delegates

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, June 8. The never-ending discussions at the Arms Conference at last reached a definite climax on Friday afternoon when it was announced that an "agreement formula" had been formed to which Barthou, Eden and Norman Davis all gave their assent.

Late on Thursday night agreement about the text of this resolution was reached and was communicated to the Governments in London and Paris, both of whom have since notified their approval. This resolution emphasises the necessity of continuing the work of the Arms Conference until such time as a general agreement is reached whereby armaments may be reduced and limited.

Among the most salient features of the draft resolution are the following:

1. That it is recognised as essential that Germany must participate in the further work of the Conference;

2. That negotiations aiming at Germany's return should be conducted through diplomatic channels and not through some organ belonging to the conference as at first proposed by the British;

3. That it is further recognised as necessary that a committee should be appointed to study control and safety in the form of guarantees for the execution of future agreement;

4. That another committee be appointed to study concrete disarmament proposals, that is harmonise with the different memoranda and decisions submitted to the Conference with the object of working these up into one acceptable agreement; and

5. The adjournment of the Conference until the president of the Bureau considers that sufficient progress has been made in the four points just enumerated to justify the convocation of the Conference.

This resolution was unanimously passed at 8 p.m. on Friday by the Main Committee of the Conference, certain reservations, however, being made by Italy, Poland and Persia.

Mr. Arthur Henderson adjourned the Main Committee till Monday next in order that the Committee could make recommendations about the method of putting the resolution into effect.—Transocean Kuo Min.

MUSSOLINI AND HITLER

Meeting At Venice

London, June 9. According to a Berlin message negotiations have been proceeding for a considerable time for a meeting between the German Chancellor, Herr Adolf Hitler, and the Italian Premier, Signor Benito Mussolini, but the report is practically denied from Rome, where it is declared, authoritatively, that no proposal for such a meeting has been received from Germany.

Reuter's correspondent in Berlin, however, understands that a definite date and place will soon be fixed.

A telephonic message from Geneva states that M. Louis Barthou, the French Foreign Minister, has been informed by Signor Mussolini that he is expecting Chancellor Hitler at Venice next week and would M. Barthou care to visit Italy before or after Herr Hitler. It is gathered that M. Barthou replied evasively.—Reuter.

M. BARTHOU VISITING LONDON

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, June 8. M. Barthou officially told French journalists on Friday night that he had accepted Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's invitation to visit London in the first days of July and would probably leave Paris on June 30 so as to be able to spend the week-end with Mr. MacDonald and Sir John Simon. Barthou expressly added that this was not merely a courtesy visit but concerned specific negotiations.—Transocean Kuo Min.

MISSING VICE CONSUL

Still a Mystery

Nanking, June 10.

The whereabouts of Mr. Kuramoto, Japanese Vice-Consul, who was reported missing on Saturday, are still shrouded in mystery although the police and garrison authorities have been actively working since the disappearance was brought to their attention yesterday morning. The slightest clue has not yet found.

Mr. Wang Ching Wei has instructed the Garrison Commander and Police Commissioner as well as other military authorities to take all possible measures to clear up the mystery.—Reuter.

TWO BENGALIS TO DIE

Throwing A Bomb at Europeans

Calcutta, June 9.

Two Bengalis have been sentenced to death for throwing a bomb at Europeans who were watching a cricket match at Chittagong on January 7.

This is believed to be the first instance of capital punishment for attempted murder.—Reuter.

Mr. M. F. Cleary, Superintendent of Police, was slightly wounded in the outrage, and an Hindu was killed.

SILVER MARKET

(From Our Own Correspondent)

London, June 9. London silver prices to-day were unchanged as follows:—

Spot 19 1/2
Forward 19 1/2
The London on New York cross-rate at 2.00 p.m. to-day was 5.06 1/2/19 compared with 5.06 1/2/19 at yesterday's closing.

OLD KANDIAN THRONE

To Be Restored To Ceylonese

London, June 8.

As an expression of personal favour towards the Ceylonese, His Majesty the King has decided to restore to Ceylon the ancient Throne of the Kings of Kandy, which has been preserved at Windsor Castle for over a century.

His Majesty has charged the Duke of Gloucester to make the formal presentation to the Ceylon Government during his impending visit, on his way to the Melbourne Centenary celebrations.—Reuter.

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA

By The Little Entente

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Vienna, June 9. The re-establishment of normal relationships between Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Yugoslavia on one side and Soviet Russia on the other was conclusively decided on Saturday by the permanent council of the Little Entente.

Litvinoff and Benesch have already exchanged identical letters about the resumption of normal diplomatic relationships, and the other countries will follow suit as soon as the formalities have been settled.—Transocean Kuo Min.

NO AUTHENTIC NEWS

Berlin, June 8. The meeting between Hitler and Mussolini, reported by the foreign Press as likely to take place in Venice in the middle of this month, was neither confirmed nor commented upon by official quarters here on Saturday, nor was any authentic news obtainable from Rome on the matter up till now.—Transocean Kuo Min.

TERRORISM IN AUSTRIA

Numerous Acts of Bombing

Vienna, June 10.

Numerous terrorist acts are reported from all parts of Austria. The Heimwehr troops guarding the tunnel at Lueg, were fired on from the mountains. One was killed and another seriously injured.

A viaduct was blown up at Semmering, delaying trains from Italy. The railway line was blown up at Krembs presumably in order to interfere with tour of members of the diplomatic corps as guests of the Government.

The Danube steamer station was blown up at Müssdorf, while a number of bomb explosions occurred elsewhere.—Reuter.

AUDACIOUS HOLD UP

Shanghai Office Incident

Shanghai, June 9.

A British firm, Messrs. Seth Mancell and McLure, one of the leading chartered accountants in Shanghai, were victims this afternoon of an unusually daring armed robbery.

At about 4.30 p.m., just after the return of two shroffs from collecting, four armed Chinese entered the offices and held up everybody at pistol-point, including Mr. McLure himself.

The gunmen shepherded all the staff upstairs to a small room, where they were locked in, and then made off with $12,000 in cash. No arrests have yet been made.—Reuter.

MISS NUTHALL Wins Great Tennis Final

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 26.

One of the hardest fought women's singles that I have seen for many a day provided a thrilling final for the West Kensington lawn tennis tournament this afternoon. The opponents were Mrs. J. B. Pittman, who won the first set 6-4, and Miss Betty Nuthall, who retaliated by taking the second and third sets—each at 7-5—and the match.

It was a struggle between Miss Nuthall's tremendously hard hit, but frequently erratic attack and Mrs. Pittman's superb defence.

In the first set Mrs. Pittman was always in front. She led 3-1, 6-2, 5-3, 5-4, and then went out in the following game. She, might, indeed, have won the set more easily, for twice she was within a point of a 4-1 lead before her opponent saved this all-important fifth game. Miss Nuthall struggled very hard to reach 4—all, but at "deuce" sent one ball narrowly over the sideline and hit the next one wildly out of court in an attempt to make a winner from a ball which, at this stage of the set, should have been dealt with on safety first lines.

Mrs. Pittman won the set because she maintained the surer defence, allied now and then to a piercing counter attack, and was much more mobile about the court than her opponent. Her swiftness of foot, indeed, enabled her time after time to pick up Miss Nuthall's far flung drives into the deep corners. After these dashes Mrs. Pittman would lob the ball back high and deep and wait for a favourable development in the rally.

The old error in Miss Nuthall's game—impatience in not waiting for a winning opportunity—was frequently in evidence in this set against an opponent who, giving the net a wide berth, and varying her length, cleverly cut down her errors to the minimum.

In the second set Miss Nuthall showed the courage of her lawn tennis convictions by increasing the pace of her hitting, and to her eye the ball grew bigger. She led 3-0 and 4-2, and was caught and passed at 4-6, but then took the next three games for the set. In this bout the onlookers had the joy of seeing Miss Nuthall's drive

OPEN LETTER TO ROOSEVELT

PLAIN SPEAKING BY STEEL UNION OFFICIALS

"We Have Lost Faith In The Administration"

Washington, June 10.

One of the bluntest pieces of plain speaking ever addressed to President Roosevelt was contained in an open letter from the rank and file of the committee of sixteen Steel Union officials.

The letter says: "If you really mean to abide by your own recovery law the least you can do is to summon the steel manufacturers to Washington for a genuine collective bargaining conference."

"We have lost faith in the administration, General Johnson has discredited himself for ever in the eyes of the workers."

"The least you can do is to throw the Iron and Steel Institutes into a brazen company union and your proposition into the waste paper basket."

"It is useless for us to waste more time. Rejecting the traps set for us, we are returning home to-day to prepare for action."—Reuter.

into the corner falling within the lines instead of six inches beyond them.

The final set was even more exciting. Mrs. Pittman led by 2-1 and 4-2. Miss Nuthall caught up at 4 all. Mrs. Pittman led 5-4, and then Miss Nuthall went on to victory. In the tenth game of this see-saw set Mrs. Pittman stood at match point. Then for once in a way, she went all out for a tremendous drive and sent the ball narrowly over the side line. In the last game of the match Miss Nuthall was four times within a point of success before she could clinch the match.

Miss Nuthall, by the way, used this afternoon a racket belonging to Fred Perry. It weighs 14 ounces, and she has decided that she likes the heavier racket and has ordered future ones of her own to be made identical with Perry's except for the initials.

Whether the extra half ounce brought her victory to-day is difficult to decide. I think, rather, that the turning point in the match was the success with which Betty, in the final set, exploited the sharply angled drive in order to draw her indomitable opponent away from her position in the centre of the baseline.

Men's Singles Final

C. F. Aeschliman beat H. G. N. Cooper 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Women's singles Final

Miss B. Nuthall beat Mrs. J. B. Pittman (holder) 4-6, 7-5, 7-5.

HEAVY STORMS IN AMERICA

River Bursts Its Banks

New York, June 8.

Wind storms, torrential rains and floods have brought new afflictions to the north-western prairie States which were recently parched with drought.

At Yankton, South Dakota, a man was killed and several injured during a gale which caused widespread damage. Trees were uprooted and windmills and buildings toppled over.

At Sioux City, Iowa, the Floyd River burst its banks and flooded an area a mile wide. Scores of families were forced to flee from their homes.—Reuter.

SAFETY FIRST IN LONDON

London, June 9.

Experimental road crossings for pedestrians at sixty places in Westminster and Holborn will come into operation in London on Monday. Regulations provide for the first time that pedestrians crossing the road elsewhere than on crossings which are marked on the roadway will be liable on conviction to a maximum fine of five shillings while a maximum penalty of £5 is provided for drivers of vehicles who ignore regulations affecting them at these crossings which are all at places where traffic is controlled by lights or police.—British Wireless.

COTTON AREA IN THE UNITED STATES

New York, June 8.

An increase of nearly 10,000,000 acres in the 1935 cotton area in the United States is contemplated, in the State reports, suggesting that officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration are at present working out the cotton control programme for next season's crop.

The increase is being considered with a view to preventing any undue price advance calculated to promote foreign production.—Reuter.

Surprises In Week-end Lawn Bowls

CRAIGENGOWER "A" LOSE TO RECREIO: K.C.C. BEAT TAIKOO

K.C.C. Records First Win Of Season

Probably due to the heavy showers which fell during the afternoon several surprises were registered in the Lawn Bowls matches played during the week-end. The Craigenower "A" team was sensationally beaten by the Club de Recreio by 12 shots, while the Kowloon Cricket Club surprised the Tai-koo Docks by 54 shots to 42. The Senior champions, Kowloon Bowling Green Club severely trounced the Police R.C. by 30 shots to 45, and a narrow win of 8 shots was recorded by the Kowloon Docks over the Civil Service.

In the Junior Division, the Indian R.C. continued their success, their latest victims being the Civil Service, while the Police Recreation Club who are struggling with the Indians for supremacy in this division, also triumphed, defeating the Bowling Green by seven shots. Last year's champions, the Craigenower, lost to the Club de Recreio, while the Kowloon Cricket Club recorded their win of the season at the expense of the Hongkong Electric.

AMERICAN OPEN GOLF TITLE

Wonderful Win By Olin Dutra

Ardmore, Penn., June 10. Once again the American Open Golf championship was secured by an American player, Olin Dutra, who made a wonderful recovery in spite of his recent illness to wrest the title from the holder, Gene Saracen, by the closest possible margin, after both the latter and Bobby Cruikshank were well ahead. Tom Creavy equalled Gene Saracen's record of 1932 for American championship golf with a final round of 68, which is a record for the Merion course and made him equal the seventh aggregate of 299, his previous rounds being 79, 76 and 78.

A very close finish. The finish was a very close one, Olin Dutra starting eight strokes behind Cruikshank and five behind Saracen, but he rallied magnificently. He could afford three putts in the eighteenth, but deliberately took them and finished last, so the winning stroke was the last of the championship. Dutra carried a medicine bottle with him as he had been recently very ill with amoebic dysentery and it was doubted whether he could stand the strain of the last day's struggle.

Thrilling Finishes At The Swimming Gala

CHARITY FUNCTION A GREAT SUCCESS

Victoria Recreation Club Win Men's Relay Race

Thrilling finishes and keen competition featured the Charity Swimming Gala held at the South China Athletic Association's Bathing Pavilion, at North Point on Saturday night, in aid of the Society for Protection of Children, when, in spite of threatening weather, a huge crowd including Lady Southern, wife of the Colonial Secretary and many other distinguished guests were present.

It was hoped by the sponsors of the gala to sell 300 tickets of $3 each and this was fully realised as evidenced by the crowded stands.

The rivalry was keen and although the Chinese Clubs carried off five of the open events, they were fully extended in those in which the Europeans competed.

$900 Taken At The Gate

The Victoria Recreation Club carried off the honours in the Men's 200 Metres Relay, and swam a brilliant race to win by a comfortable margin.

The European Y.M.C.A., who are the H.K.I.A.S.A. champions, were unfortunately compelled to swim a team of reserves, none of the original swimmers taking part. They nevertheless put up a fine showing and managed to take fourth place.

It was regretted that Mrs. A. C. Schreuder, the Association lady champion was unable to participate in the Ladies 100 Metres free style event for the Lady Southern Cup. Miss Yeung Sau-king, champion of China and of Far East fame winning by four yards from Miss Chan Woon-king.

In the Ladies 200 Metres Invitation relay, the South China Athletic Association took first place from the European Y.M.C.A., who were again swimming two reserves instead of their original team.

The Chinese Bathing Club were never in the race at all and came third some distance behind the "Y" Ladies.

V.R.C. Win

The first event on the programme was the Men's 200 Metres Open Relay and in this the V.R.C. established an early lead through W. Lawrence, Cheung King-to of the Chinese Civil Servants Club being a close second and South China and European Y.M.C.A. not far behind.

L. Roza Pereira then took the water and increased the lead by a short margin. E. B. da Roza putting the issue beyond doubt by spurting for a lead of about 10 yards. H. L. Ozorio came in third easily, with the Civil Servants second, South China third and the Y.M.C.A. fourth.

In the Ladies 200 Metres Relay, South China established a short lead through Miss Leung Wing-han, who finished her length a yard to the good of Mrs. Read of the Y.M.C.A. Miss Leung Yuk-chen of the Chinese Bathing Club being three yards to the rear.

Miss Yeung Sau-king hit the water a good two yards ahead of Miss A. Fowler of the "Y" and a thrilling race ensued, the "Y" swimmer gaining slight ground. The third length saw Miss Lau Kwan Chun gain several feet on Miss Y. Weller who went into the side ropes twice, but the latter kept her end up till the last although about five yards to the rear of the former.

Miss Yeung Sau-king started on the last length with a good lead ahead of Mrs. Schreuder, but the latter swam brilliantly to make up on her Chinese adversary and finished up five yards behind. Although it may have seemed a runaway victory for South China, they had to be fully extended to take the title.

Lady Southern Cup

In the Ladies 100 Metres Free Style for the Lady Southern Cup, Miss Yeung Sau-king led by a short margin from Miss Chan Woon-king of the Chinese Bathing Club, and was fully extended to snatch a victory by three yards. Miss Yeung Sau-king and Miss Leung King Wa, both of South China came third and fourth respectively.

As predicted the lighting was very bad and the board much too springy, the result being that Ed Da Roza and E. F. Selk of the V.R.C. and European Y.M.C.A. respectively, were not exactly comfortable and consequently failed to give of their best.

Wong Sik-hon of the Chinese Bathing Club who took first place, gave a very fine performance and his hand stand, although not as hard as Roza's back-swing dive and Selk's one and a half somersault, was performed with grace and easy movement, while his approach and take-off left nothing to be desired.

The Men's 200 Metres Breast Stroke Open event was a thrilling event, and the best of the evening. Chan Fook-sing of the Chinese Civil Servants Swimming Club who came second to the Colony Champion at the Association championships last year, swam a brilliantly timed race to win by under a yard from Mul Chu-cheuk, China's second string Breast stroker.

The latter led from the start by about four yards, while Chan Fook-sing hung back reserving his strength for the last ten or fifteen yards. Kam Yu-kit of South China, Marquis of the V.R.C., Suen Fu-sun of the Civil Servants and Yeung Wai-lim of the Chinese Bathing Club were bunched together in that order.

At the completion of the second length Mul Chu-cheuk was still leading although Chan had reduced the lead by a yard while on the completion of the third turning, Chan Fook-sing turned on the boards together with Mul and swam neck and neck until about 15 metres from the finish when a spurt gave him a slight lead which he maintained to win a thrilling race.

The Water Polo

The last event on the programme, the water-polo, was marred by the continual piping of the whistle which often prevented a free-for-all.

Delgado of the European team and Fung Kwok-wah of the Chinese team were bad offenders. Lawrence played a fine game up at forward and together with Schreuder of the Y.M.C.A. made the openings from which Campbell scored both the winners' goals.

The outstanding player was the Chinese goal-keeper Po King-fuk of South China who gave a truly magnificent exhibition and saved at least a dozen goals.

W. F. Kerr was the pick of the European defence and time and again swam the ball out of the danger zone with two Chinese forwards swimming over his back. Remedios was good and played a constructive game but he was over-fond of ducking the man in possession instead of trying to obtain the ball.

Schreuder at forward was not at his best, probably owing to lack of practice. Shek Kam-pui and Chan Fook-sing were good in the Chinese attack and had their backs sent up some decent passes there might have been a reversal of the score.

Lady Southern Presents Prizes
The prizes at the conclusion of the racing were presented by Lady Southern, wife of Sir Thomas Southern, K.B.E., the Colonial Secretary.

Mr. M. K. Lo, President of the S.C.A.A., said that much of the responsibility of the organisation and success of the gala was due to the energetic and painstaking work put in by Lady Southern. Sir Thomas was prevented through indisposition from attending although Mr. Lo knew very well that he was keenly interested in the organisation of a charitable swimming gala. The Society for Protection of Children and the Women's Auxiliary Committee had also contributed a large share towards the success of the function. Mr. Lo also thanked the many workers who had helped in the arrangements of the gala, those who had sold tickets, and the Companies, the China Emporium, Sincere, The Wing On, and the Sun Co., who had kindly donated the prizes.

$900 For Society

He remarked that he was glad to announce that the entire number of 300 tickets at $3 each had been sold, and that the sum of $900 would be given to the Society.

Lady Southern, in reply, said that she would like to express great appreciation of the work the S.C.A.A. had done for the Society. The success of the function, had exceeded her wildest imaginations, with its amazingly large audience and the immense enthusiasm shown by the spectators and the competitors.

Lady Southern also referred to the work of the Society in Hong Kong, and commented on the great help and assistance it offered to the walls of the Colony. She was very glad that the Society had found in the S.C.A.A. an energetic and vigorous Club which would help the Society, and hoped that future connections with the club would always remain as successful.

THE RESULTS

The following were the results:
Men's 200 metres Relay (four-a-side)

LANE CRAWFORD MEETING

Directors Recommendation

It only remains to examine the balance of Profit and Loss account, and reiterate the recommendation contained in the Directors' Report already in your hands. Your Directors recommend that the balance of $39,275.14 be appropriated as follows:—

To place to Reserve for Bad and Doubtful Debts $ 7,708.64
To place to Reserve for Staff Passages and Contingencies $20,000.00
To Carry Forward to next Account $11,478.50

In formulating these recommendations, your Directors have been actuated by a desire to further consolidate the Company's financial position.

The allocation to Reserve for Bad and Doubtful Debts will bring this reserve to a figure of $10,000. I would add that this should not be regarded as an indication that we anticipate any exceptional loss in this direction, but it is deemed only prudent to make such a provision.

The lack of any reserve for Staff Passages and Contingencies has, in the past, made it difficult to absorb charges under this heading without creating undue disturbance in yearly Working Accounts. It will be appreciated that, without such reserve to draw on one year may be unduly burdened with such charges while other years escape with comparatively light expenditure of this nature.

With the creation of a reserve such as is recommended, it will be possible to apply a constant charge for this item from year to year, and so ensure more equable working results.

It is a matter of regret to your Directors that they are unable to recommend payment of a dividend. Under existing conditions, trading results are by no means satisfactory, but I believe it will be appreciated by shareholders that their interests are ultimately best served by the policy adopted by your Directors. I accordingly trust you will approve these recommendations.

The Organization

I will now conclude with a few remarks on our organization.

Your property, Exchange Building and Burrows Street, has been maintained in first class order, and you will be gratified to know that, despite new buildings recently erected, Exchange Building continues to attract tenants, and all office accommodation is at present fully occupied.

In its trading during the year under review, your Company has continued to maintain its reputation for supplying highest quality merchandise at reasonable prices throughout all departments. Stocks are comprehensive and cover a wide range of competitive values.

In August last, the Company instituted a highly efficient and expeditious delivery service, which has afforded customers the satisfaction of obtaining fresh commodities at any time between early morning and late evening. Deliveries are now effected to every part of the Colony, including outlying districts, and this convenience is much appreciated by the Company's patrons.

During the year, two valuable agencies were added to the already large list of reputable firms represented by the Company. These are the Rolex Watch Co. Ltd., and the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. As you are no doubt aware, the Rolex Watch is known as "The World's Best Wrist Watch"—a title merited by maintaining for many years the highest percentage of all official certificates awarded for high precision wrist watches.

The Burroughs Adding Machines, Calculators, and Book-keeping machines are equally well known, and, with the general trend towards mechanical accounting, it is hoped that this agency will prove a remunerative source of income. I would mention that two Bank Posting Machines have already been installed in a local bank.

For Ladies

As an announcement of especial interest to the ladies of the Colony, I would state that excellent arrangements have been made for deliveries of the very latest styles in Ladies' and Misses' Gowns, Hats, etc. from New York, and with these added to our shipments from London and Paris, our Ladies' Salon will be in a position to meet

England In Uncomfortable Position

FOUR WICKETS FOR LITTLE OVER HUNDRED

Hopes On Pataudi And Hendren

After dismissing the strong Australian side for only 374 runs in the first innings, England found themselves in an extremely uncomfortable position: at the end of the second day's play, being 256 runs in arrears with six wickets in hand. The Nawab of Pataudi and Hendren are the "not outs" and on them England fastens all her hopes. If they should succeed in stopping the rot, then England will probably put up a good fight, but in view of the fact that the match is confined to only four days, the chances are that a draw is not unlikely.

L. Chipperfield, the "surprise selection" for Australia had had a hiccup in his century by the narrowest possible margin while for England, Kenneth Farnes, the young amateur fast bowler, came off with flying colours when he took 5 wickets for 102 runs.

The weather was sunny and the wicket damp from the heavy dew that came on during the night, though otherwise it was perfect when McCabe and Chipperfield, the overnight "not outs" resumed Australia's innings. Walters entrusted his attack to Farnes who bowled with a slight breeze and Geary, and as was the case in the first day, the batsmen started cautiously though they were not unduly slow.

McCabe who had batted so well the previous day, gave the impression that he was set for a big score but when he had added 18 runs to his total, making it 65, he gave a chance off a well-pitched ball from Farnes. Leyland at mid-on, accepting it with eager hands. He had given a pleasing exhibition of batting, scoring all round the wickets and his total included seven boundaries. The total now stood at 234 for 6.

Oldfield Bats

The next man in was Oldfield, the wicket-keeper, and he appeared content to merely play the bowling, not attempting to score off anything but the really loose ones. Nevertheless, he collected 120 before falling a victim to Mitchell when he pulled one to Hammond at slips; 281—7—20.

Grimmett again proved that he is a better batsman than most people imagined by playing good cricket to score 29 when a stop was made for lunch. Meanwhile Chipperfield won the admiration of the spectators by playing pretty cricket, and so successful was he that he needed only one run to reach the magical three-figures at lunch time. Australia's total now standing at 355 for the loss of seven wickets.

Another Victim... As fate would have it, however, Chipperfield proved to be another victim of that much-dreaded "change bowler". The interval, for when he went out to bat again, thirty thousand people saw him swing a trifle wildly at a delivery from Farnes. He was as mentioned above, only a trifle wild, but that was enough, for he failed to get hold of the ball properly and gave a chance behind the stumps which was eagerly snapped up by Ames. It was bad luck on this batsman, for his innings was an excellent one and he fully deserved to get his hundred. He was at the wicket for 195 minutes during which time he hit nine boundaries and also brought off some delightful shots, chiefly behind the wicket and past cover-point. He was given a warm reception which he fully deserved. The score board now read 355—8—28.

And The End

O'Reilly went in to join Grimmett and the two made a gallant effort to stop the rot but that was not to be, for with but 19 runs added to the total, Grimmett's innings came to an end, an innings from Geary bringing about the requirements of the most fastidious.

I now beg to formally propose that the Report and Accounts for the year ended February 28, 1934, as presented, be adopted, and shall be glad if some shareholder will second the proposal. When this has been done, I shall be pleased to answer any questions shareholders may wish to ask.

This was duly seconded and passed.
Mr. T. E. Pearce was re-elected a director of the Company and Messrs. Standen and Davis were re-appointed auditors.

his downfall. Grimmett batted excellently under the circumstances and his crisp late-cuts were a delight to watch. Wall came in but only to see his partner's wicket spread-eagled by Farnes. Thus Australia's innings came to an end, "Mr. Extras" contributing 10 to bring the total to 374.

One of the features of the match was the fine bowling of Farnes. True, his captaincy nursed him carefully, but whenever he was given a spell with the ball, he kept a good length and imparted enough spin in it to make the batsmen treat him with care. Walters captained his side well and on the whole the fielding was of an unusually high standard.

England's Innings
As was generally expected, Walters took Sutcliffe out with him to open England's innings. They appeared to be rather troubled with Grimmett's slow and were trying the bowling with much respect. Scoring, as a result, was on the slow side though after about fifteen minutes, runs came more frequently. Australia met with their first success when Walters, in attempting to play back to Grimmett, missed the ball and stopped it with his leg; the bowler's appeal for obstruction being upheld by the umpire: 45—1—17.

Hammond was the next man in and it was noticed that he too, found the bowling difficult. However, he began to go out to both Grimmett and O'Reilly and the fifty was sent up after play had been in progress for an hour. These two batsmen appeared to have got over their difficulty when the luncheon interval arrived. England's total then being 70 while Sutcliffe had 38 and Hammond 13.

Sutcliffe's Fifty
Upon resumption, Sutcliffe with a straight drive to the boundary, reached his half-century in 115 minutes and he twice beautifully copped Grimmett and O'Reilly to the ropes, sending the hundred up in 130 minutes. He attempted to cut Grimmett again, but this time the ball was going away and he consequently did not get hold of it properly and gave a catch to Chipperfield at slip. It was a beautiful catch as the ball was travelling very low and was going away from the fieldman. The Yorkshire idol scored 62 runs which included ten boundaries while England's total stood at 102 for 2.

The Nawab of Pataudi joined Hammond but was very subdued. After only four runs had been added to the total, Hammond made his first mistake, a fatal one. He made a poor effort to put O'Reilly away but gave an easy catch behind the bowler which was taken by McCabe.

The Two Fats
Leyland joined the Nawab (also known as "Fat"), and at this stage, more than any other period during England's innings, it was very noticeable how Grimmett and O'Reilly were troubling the batsmen. Eight runs later Leyland was out when he played the ball a cleverly deceived shorter one back to Grimmett. Thus three wickets fell within a short space of time and for the addition of but 12 runs.

Pat Hendren was the next man in and the Middlesex veteran at once showed that he was not in the least perturbed by the way things were going against his side. He played the bowling carefully while his partner, Pataudi, also treated the good-length spinners with much respect. In fact, so careful was the latter that it took him fully twenty minutes to break his "duck."

The runs came very slowly but in view of the fact that it was but a few minutes to drawing time, the tactics adopted by the batsmen were fully justified. Thus at the close of play England were 128 runs in arrears with six wickets in hand.

tions of their many friends." Sir Thomas concluded.

Sir Thomas then toasted the health, happiness and prosperity of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. Lamb Gasper, on behalf of his wife, in the course of a few well chosen words, thanked Sir Thomas and Lady Southern and all the good folk for coming along to see them happily married.

Comdr. Morphet also toasted the bridesmaids, Miss Patterson and Miss Markham, who he said, had lent a graceful charm to the ceremony.

Among those present at the wedding were Sir Thomas Southern, K.B.E., and Lady Southern; Mrs. O. C. Borrett, wife of H.E. Major-General O. C. Borrett, C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., The Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G., Inspector General of Police, Mrs. Wolfe, and Miss Wolfe; the Hon. Dr. A. E. Wellington, and Mrs. Wellington; Mrs. R. E. Lindell; Mrs. J. D. Lloyd; Mrs. C. E. L. Grist; Mrs. E. Cock; Mr. and Mrs. D. Trill; Mrs. J. Durran; Mrs. E. G. Powell; Mrs. R. B. Jackson; Mrs. E. Davidson; Mrs. C. G. S. Thomson; Mrs. G. D. S. Black; Mrs. A. M. Bowes-Sutton; Mrs. J. A. Fraser; Mrs. Briggs; Mrs. Meyer; Mrs. Robertson and Mr. E. N. Ensor, Commissioner of Chinese Customs.

After the reception, the happy couple left for their honeymoon, which is being spent at Cheung Chau and the bride's going-away dress was a gown of white tulle.

The bride's gift to the groom was a silver toilet set, while the bridegroom presented the bride with a beautiful wristlet watch.

Kwok-Lee

A pretty wedding took place at the Gloucester Restaurant on Saturday afternoon when Miss R. Lee, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Y. B. Lee, became the bride of Mr. C. S. Kwok, principal of the Hong Kong Chiu-Shing Commercial Academy, and eldest son of Mrs. H. K. Kwok.

The ceremony which was performed among Chinese rites with Mr. Kwok Chan as witness, was attended by over 200 guests.

The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. Y. B. Lee, was dressed in a European bridal dress of white satin, with a lace-minuet veil clasped with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies and maiden-hair fern.

The only bridesmaid, Miss Mar-Tan, wore a Chinese costume of apple-green gowns, and carried a bouquet of lilies and maiden-hair fern.

BOXING EVE WINS AT MACAO

COME BACK OF ONE TIME
PUBLIC FAVOURITE

Cebu And Bold Commander Upset Punters

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The third extra race meeting at Macao was held yesterday under a strong sun, which may have in some way been responsible for the small attendance. The cash sweep figures were very small indeed.

As predicted in my article on Saturday, the "View" stable had a very good day, accounting for three of the seven races. The sensation of the day was the success of Boxing Eve, one of the best sprinters of former days, in the June Meeting Handicap. The pony was cleverly ridden by Mr. Gilbert Harriman to win from Racing Triumph and Daylight Eve.

Cebu and Bold Commander were the other ponies to upset punters. Both of them returned handsome dividends to their supporters.

KING SALMON DESTROYED

King Salmon broke his fetlock in the second race and had to be destroyed.

The opening race was uneventful. There were only four starters and the public made Sea View (Mr. Yue Shun Wah) a hot favourite. The pony ran comfortably with the field most of the way. Half a mile from home he forged into the lead, with Potsdam within half a length of him. Mr. Yue did not have to push his mount at all to win from Potsdam. Young Commander was third and Racing Joy last.

Bold Commander

There were eleven starters in the Chiu Wah Shan Handicap, but there was only one pony in it all the way—Bold Commander. The pony led all the way home, followed by Panama and The Corp. In the straight Soldier of Italy came up with a big rush and finished second, while Panama retained third place. Bold Commander paid a dividend of $68.70 for a win, which happened to be the biggest dividend of the day.

Cebu Comes In

Cebu was steered home by Mr. P. P. Botelho in the third race over six furlongs in which Powerful King, the favourite, was unplaced.

Orlando led the field, but could not establish his customary lead. At the head of the straight Colombo and No Fear passed him and it looked as though they would settle the issue between them when Mr. Botelho, in his customary dash, came along in spectacular manner to snatch victory by half a length on the outside. No Fear finished second and Colombo third.

Bay View

In the Mo Kan Shan Plate, Bay View won a close race from Macaroni. The winner was ridden by Mr. S. Y. Laing, who did not seem a bit flustered when Wayward Stag set a long lead. The pony however, was all spent before the home straight was reached and Bay View and Lemberg passed him in that order. These two ponies put up a great finish. Wakefield was third.

Boxing Eve

Mr. Harriman made up for his defeat on Macaroni by winning handsomely on Boxing Eve, leading from start to finish. The pony got on to his stride early in the race and established a long lead. He was given a breather at the bend and was sent along again by Mr. Harriman, to win from Racing Triumph by two and a half lengths. Daylight Eve was third, three further lengths behind.

Another Runaway Affair

The Matco's Race proved an easy thing for Black Velvet, ridden by "Opium Dick." This candidate led from start to finish, with only Tolshan within measurable distance of him, ultimately ending up six lengths behind the winner. City of Shanghai was a poor third, just ousting Scar Face.

Ladies Race

Full marks must be given to Miss Betty Fair for winning the last race with Harbour View. Getting off to a favourable start, she pushed the pony into the lead and drew away with every stride. Miss Scott Harston took second place and many lengths behind came Racing Lad with Miss Joan Dowling up. The rest of the field was badly outclassed.

HAPPY VALLEY GOLF

Singles Reaches Third Round

The following are the results of the third round of the Royal Hong Kong Golf Clubs (Happy Valley) Singles—stitute, where her personal charm and sweetness, combined with brilliant efficiency to make her most deservedly popular.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. G. Powell, and the bride was given away by Sir Thomas Southern, the Colonial Secretary, while Commander Morphet acted as best man.

The bride looked very sweet and graceful in a beautifully moulded gown of pale rose-beige peau-d'ange lace. Her long veil was of the same delicate tint and was held in place by a dainty cap of lace which was pulled down over her bronze curls with charming effect. She wore as her sole ornament a lovely bracelet of rubies and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom's mother.

The groomsmen were Mr. R. Wolsenden and Mr. A. Cairns, and the maids of honour were Miss Marie Petersen, and Miss Kathleen Markham (niece of Mr. P. B. Jolly, Commissioner of Customs) who came down from Hothorn for the wedding. Both girls looked very attractive in frilly frocks of primrose organdie, sashed with narrow ribbons of pale green velvet, and with wide hats of organdie.

A reception was very kindly given afterwards by the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe C.M.G., Inspector General of Police, and the Matron of Honour, Mrs. Wolfe, who received the guests and looked charming in a dress of pale yellow voile delicately patterned in brown and worn with a wide brown hat.

Lady Southern looked delightful in a dress of ivory organdie caught at the neck with a loose bow of velvet and worn with a picture hat of dark crimson.

The health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by Sir Thomas Southern, in a most witty and delightful speech, in which he mentioned his early friendship with the bride's family in Ceylon (when she herself was but a small school-girl) and when, as a junior District Officer at Kandy, he sometimes finished a long hot "circuit" through the East Malate Hills by calling in at the pleasant Westland Estate, and enjoying the hospitality of the bride's parents. It was this early friendship that gave Lady Southern the happy idea of suggesting that Miss Westland should be asked to come to Hong Kong, when the secretaryship of the Helena May fell vacant a few years ago.

Among those present, at the reception I noticed Mrs. Borrett, Mrs. Elliot, Miss Marion Wolfe, Mrs. Edgar Davidson, Mrs. Cock, Mrs. G. D. R. Black, Miss Lindsell, Mrs. J. D. Lloyd, Mrs. E. G. Powell, Mrs. Peter Grist, Mrs. J. Durran, Mrs. J. A. Fraser, Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. Meyer, The Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington and Mrs. Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. D. Trall, Mr. and Mrs. Womack, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Stopan Thomson, Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Bowes-Smith, Miss Flint, Miss Russell, Mrs. R. B. Jackson, Mr. E. N. Ensor, Commissioner of Chinese Customs, and many others.

The happy couple left later in the day for Cheung Chau, where the honeymoon will be spent in the charming bungalow so kindly lent for the occasion by the Hon. G. C. and Mrs. Alabaster.

WATERLOO BRIDGE

London, June 9.

The London County Council will on Tuesday have before them the joint report of the highways committee and finance committee which recommends that immediate steps be taken for the rebuilding of the hundred-years-old Waterloo Bridge with six lanes of road traffic. For several years the bridge has been out of full commission owing to subsidence of piers, due to lowering of the river bed caused by scour of the stream which at this point bends sharply to the south below St. Paul's Cathedral.

One way traffic, slowed down to walking pace, is at present permitted over the bridge and a temporary structure alongside it carries cross river traffic in opposite direction—British Wireless.

Among the passengers who returned to the Colony from Singapore by the s.s. Kashima Maru on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Henry.

"DAY OF THE STATE"

For School Children

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 10, 4.30 a.m.)

Munich, June 9.
In future all German school children will devote all their Saturdays, which will be known as "Day of the State" to various activities of the National-Socialist youth organisations, announced the new National education minister, Rust, when addressing a large congress of South German school teachers on Saturday. This applies to both boys and girls in "Hitler youth," "League of German Girls," "German young peoples League" and all similar organisations. This settles the long standing controversy about how the time of the school children should be divided among the family, school and National Socialist training. "The home and school room" said Rust, "form the child. Our task is to see the coming generation well brought up. Only in camp and marching column does the youth learn to be National Socialist. Thus the sixth day of the week shall henceforth be confined exclusively to National political education of young people."—Transocean Kuo Min.

AMERICAN MARKET

Messrs. Pierce's
Report

New York, June 10.
Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co report:

Stocks: There was some profit-taking in the course of the day, but it did not seem to be particularly important. We believe that the market is a purchase one on all minor weaknesses. As a matter of fact, there is plenty of bullish talk here of oils and coppers.

Wheat: Prices were higher at the opening due to the very bullish Government crop report. Later, there was some profit-taking on the opinion that the crop had improved since the Government report was made.

Cotton: New high prices for the movement were made under additional speculative and trade buying which absorbed realising and Southern sales. Weather conditions are at present unfavourable.

Silver: The market is dull and featureless, awaiting further developments. — Received Through Reuters.

NEWS STIMULATE MARKET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press") (Copyright.)

Berlin, June 8.
News from Geneva that the Arms Conference is not expected to end at present and that the British and French delegates are making every effort to induce Germany to return to the Conference, had a stimulating effect on the sharemarket which was reinforced by the statement of Professor Bergin about the prospects of German scientists being able to replace many imported raw materials by satisfactory synthetic substitutes.

Fixed interest securities were weaker all around, some town loans declining as much as two points.

Call Money 3 7/8, Young Loan improved 1/2 to 92, Reichsbank weakened 1/8 to 153, Distrikt rose 1 1/8 to 144, Salzdetfurth Potash advanced 1 to 154, German Steel Trusts sprang 1 3/8 to 42 3/8, German Mineral Oils rose 2 to 120 1/2, Siemenshalske jumped 2 to 141, Bemberg Rayon 5/8 firmer at 70 and Harpener Mining sprang 2 to 100.—Transocean Kuo Min.

GOLD IN THE URAL MOUNTAINS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press") (Copyright.)

Gold has been discovered in the Ural Mountains near the village of Nebelich, in the Neviansk district. The first reports on Saturday state the gold content metal-bearing sand amounts to sixteen grammes per cubic metre.—Transocean Kuo Min.

CHINESE STUDENTS

And Natural Science

Mr. Chan Shye-pak of Ying Wah College was declared champion of Mandarin speakers at the fifth annual Mandarin oratorical contest held at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. on Saturday evening. His subject was, "Chinese Students Should Pay More Attention to Natural Sciences."

Talking on the same subject as the winner, Mr. Chan Tung-chun of Man Sang College won the second prize, and the third place was secured by Mr. Hon Chi-sin from Chung Wah College who spoke on "We Must Stress on Deeds Instead of On Words."

Mrs. William C. H. Chen, the wife of the associate secretary of the "Y", presented the prizes at the conclusion of the contest.

A shield, donated by the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., Mr. Lam Chi-fung, was awarded to the winner. Souvenirs were presented to the second and third contestants.

Messrs. T. C. Yen, William C. H. Chen and Chen Yim acted as judges for the competition and the second named was also Chairman for the occasion.

Others who entered for the contest were: Miss Tso Shi-wai (Fairlea Girls' College), Mr. Cheng Hing (St. Paul's College), Mr. Cheng Fai (Wah Kiu College), Miss Ng Wan-yau (Man Sang Girls' College), Mr. Leung San-lu (Hong Man College), Mr. Chan Chiu (St. Peter's College), Mr. Tam Leung-fai (Chung Kwok College), and Mr. Wong Po Chun (Ling Tung College).

CHINESE COMMISSIONS IN BERLIN

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press") (Copyright.)

Berlin, June 9.
The presence of two Chinese commissions in Berlin, one for military and the other for the study of aviation was made the occasion of a reception by the Chinese Minister in Berlin, Mr. Liu Chung Chieh. Besides representatives of the German foreign office, deputations from private, economic and scientific organisations actively engaged in maintaining close relationships with the Far East, also took part.

In a conversation with the editor-in-chief of Transocean, the Minister expressed his special satisfaction that according to his impression—which was confirmed by the experiences of the two Chinese commissions—it seemed that in Germany it is being more and more understood that in China, just as in Germany, the conception of the unity of State and people is growing ever stronger and that hostilities between the North and South were now incidents of the past. The Minister hoped that this very similarity in development would help to bring two peoples and their Governments closer together—the object for which he (the Minister), since his assumption of office here, had been working with all might and would continue to do so.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ST. ANDREW'S HOLD BATHING PICNIC

Junk Bay Trip Unmarred By Weather

About 60 members of the St. Andrew's Club took part in their first launch bathing picnic of the summer season on Saturday afternoon.

The destination of the trip was Junk Bay, where a very enjoyable programme of swimming events took place, in addition to a pleasant picnic tea.

BERLIN MARKET REPORT

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright)]

Berlin, June 9.

Although the Reichsbank return issued on Saturday provided little grounds for buoyancy, the share market improved in tone partly owing to the impression created by the news that unemployment has again been lowered by 80,000 and partly because of State Secretary Reinhardt's declaration about the intention to carry on the reduction of interest rates.

Fixed interest securities tended to be weaker without any drastic changes occurring. State and city loans were weaker and gold and mortgage bonds were not uniform.

Call Money 3 1/2, Young Loan advanced 1/2 to 92 1/2, Reichsbank rose 1/2 to 153 1/2, Dyckstra 5/8 firmer at 144 1/2, Salzdetfurth Potash jumped 6 to 160, German Steel Trusts sprang 1 1/2 to 43 1/2, German Mineral Oils 1 1/2 better at 122, Siemens-Halske rose 1 1/2 to 142 1/2, Bemberg Rayon advanced 1 1/2 to 71 1/2, and Daimler Benz motors soared 2 1/2 to 52.

The price tendency in the share market was upwards for the whole week

TUGBOAT AGROUND

According to a Canton vernacular paper, it is reported that during the week-end, a large tugboat named Chung Chow of the Wing Shing Steamship Navigation Co., Canton, towing seven cargo-boats on her way from Nam Hoi District to Canton, suddenly ran aground near the shore of the Hong Fan Village and sank after a few minutes.

Seeing the accident, the crew of the tugboat immediately cut the towing rope and thus the seven following cargo-boats were not badly affected.

It is finally reported that apart from the sinking of the tugboat, no life was lost or any other serious damages sustained.

Gold Shipments From China

Although the recent receipt of £406,000 in bar gold from China was exceptional, moderate shipments of gold have been reaching this country from China for some time past. For the whole of 1933 imports of gold from China amounted to about £4,000,000 while about £3,000,000 came from Hong-kong. Almost the whole of these amounts have been in the form of bars. The movement is similar to the Indian gold sales, for it appears to be mainly the outcome of the sale of gold ornaments and jewelry, the owners of which have been tempted by the high price obtainable for gold.

There has long been an open bullion market in Shanghai, where fair amounts of gold are frequently dealt in, but the right to export gold from China was tested a few years ago in the Central Bank of China, which is owned and controlled by the Chinese Government, and no exports can now be arranged privately. Hong-kong being British territory, however, shipments can still be made privately from that centre. For the current year to date imports from China have amounted to £2,100,000, shipments arriving about once a fortnight.

RUBBER CONTROLComes Into Force In Singapore

Singapore June 2. Rubber control came into operation at midnight last night. It has been preceded for weeks past by a heavy flow of rubber from the mainland into Singapore to avoid the restrictions on stocks which will henceforth operate in the F.M.S.

This process was accentuated feverishly throughout yesterday and it is estimated that thousands of tons of rubber were brought into Singapore by road and rail up to a late hour.

As a result godowns and rubber factories are filled with the commodity.

The staff of the local goods shed (F.M.S.R.) had to put in four extra hours of duty yesterday in order to cope with the congested traffic caused by rubber that reached here from stations in the States.

Enquiries by a representative of the Free Press last night showed that 345 trucks of rubber were received yesterday by rail up to seven o'clock last night, each truck containing approximately about 9 tons of rubber, most of it consigned to local factories.

Delivery of the rubber was made to various consignees up to seven o'clock last night on the instructions of the Customs authorities, but at nine o'clock when the goods shed staff left there were still 142 trucks of rubber remaining undelivered.

150 Lorry Loads

There was heavy traffic on the roads also and from eight o'clock yesterday morning to about five o'clock in the evening, about 150 lorries loaded with rubber passed the Johore Customs gate bound for Singapore.

In order to preserve the traditional freedom of the ports of Singapore and Penang, export of rubber from the two islands is not controlled. No rubber can be imported for local consumption or re-export however, except under permit.

All imports, therefore, will be subject to strict supervision, and preventive officers will be on their toes as from to-day to prevent smuggling.

Mr. J. I. Miller, M.C.S., Registrar of Statistics, S.S. and F.M.S., is Superintendent of Control here and in Penang, his deputies being the Collector of Land Revenue, Singapore (Mr. W. S. Edden), the Senior Assistant Superintendent, Government Monopolies, S.S. (Mr. J. J. Warren) and the head of the Preventive Service (Mr. H. W. Phear).

Anti-Smuggling Campaign
A meeting of the preventive service took place yesterday afternoon to fix final details of an anti-smuggling campaign which will now be launched.

Here are some of the features of the international rubber control scheme as it affects business men—and others—on the island of Singapore.

From now on those in possession of rubber will have to be able to give a good account of it and themselves. One of the rules lays down that no rubber shall be moved along a public road unless a person has in his possession certain documents.

Without a permit issued by the Controller (Mr. Marcus Rex) or by a Collector of Land Revenue, no rubber can be moved at all between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

From the sea, rubber can only be imported at S.H.B. wharves, and at certain points along Singapore river and Kallang River, and by road only after checking in at Woodlands import station. Delivery of consignments arriving by rail must be taken at the F.M.S.R. godowns at Tanjong Pagar.

Where rubber is imported by sea or by road there are certain time limits. Thus rubber cannot be brought in before 7.30 a.m. and after 3.30 p.m. on week-days, and before 7.30 a.m. and after noon on Saturdays, except at S.H.B. wharves.

Certain offences under the ordinance are punishable by a fine of $5,000 or one year's imprisonment. There are rules governing local sale and transfer, movements of rubber between Singapore and Penang, the collection of cess, and charges. Officers are given wide powers of search and seizure.
